FLAMBEAU

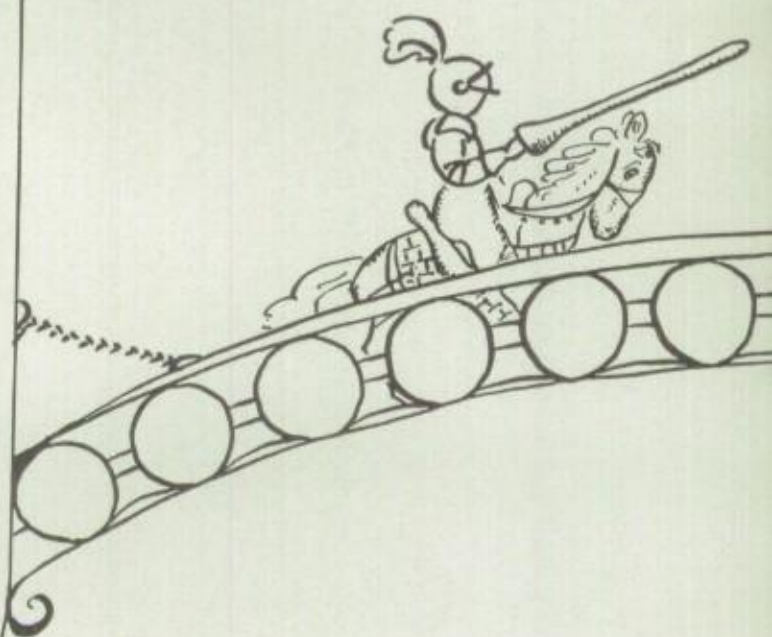

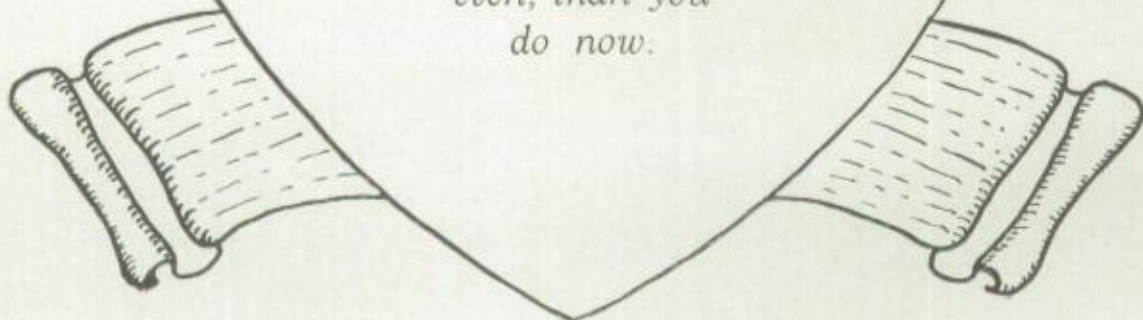

FOREWORD

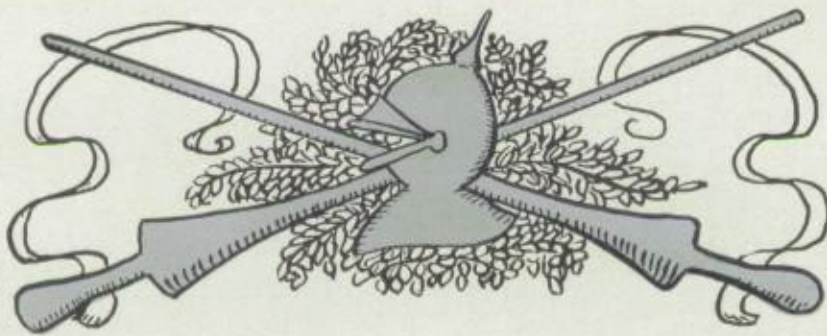

Scroll by scroll, different historical figures will unroll for you the contents of our 1933 "Flambeau," a mediaeval edition in which we have attempted to record for you in illustrated form the activities of one high school year.

If "history repeats itself," perhaps in later years as you take this yearbook from some dusty shelf and turn the yellowed pages, you will recall the school jester, the athlete, the scholar, and will relive your own high school days. And, perhaps, too, our hopes may be fulfilled and you will treasure this 1933 "Flambeau" as a memory book more than, even, than you do now.

Contents

Book I—School—Views of our campus, our building and the lake.

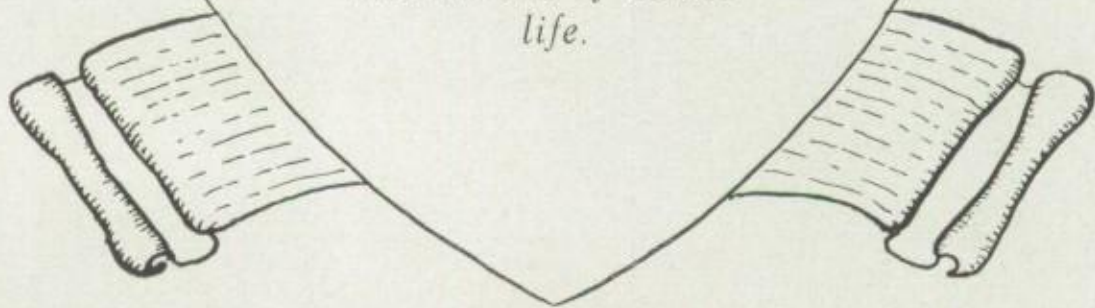

Book II—Administration — School Board, superintendent, principal, high school faculty.

Book III — Classes — Senior section, Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshmen.

Book IV — Activities — Speech, Publications, Organizations, and Music.

Book V — Athletics — Swimming, Football, Basketball, Track, Tennis, Intramurals.

Book VI — Features — Prom Queen and Prom Chairman, Senior Class Play, Junior Class Play, Calendar, Snapshots and illustrations of school life.

In mediaeval times, armored knights journeyed to far climes—to fight wars, to rescue maidens in distress, or to search for the Holy Grail. Gay minstrels, too, traveled far—singing their ways from court to court. And, along with these and other romantic figures illustrated in our book, we find a period of history richly colorful and gorgeously splendid, hiding behind clouds of blind ignorance and superstition.

Students of mediaeval history, under the teaching of Mr. Rex K. John, have relived this period through study and imagination—they have heard drawbridges clang as gay Lancelots rode forth on prancing chargers, covered with rich trappings, to test their skill and strength in open combats, in jousts, and tournaments.

The mediaeval populace lauded athletic prowess as people pay tribute to athletic accomplishment today. Under the direction of Mr. John, basketball coach, boys playing basketball have put into practice the ancient rules of knightly sportsmanship and fair play. Even this year our team has ridden from the tournament field with colors flying and horns blaring a conference triumph.

Men guided and directed affairs of this early age as executives must guide and direct affairs today. In administrative work, Mr. John's stern seriousness has commanded our respect at the same time his gay repartee, genial sense of humor, and warm friendliness have won our hearts.

In appreciation of his three-fold services, we dedicate this edition of our "Flambeau" to Mr. Rex K. John—history teacher, basketball coach, and Vice Principal.

Rear view of Lincoln Senior High School, with the tower predominate at the right, and the tennis courts in the foreground.

*To the east of Lincoln
High School, and within close view from the classroom windows, surges Lake Michigan, in its shifting moods, not unlike high school students—restless, noisy and turbulent at times, then again, happy, quiet and at peace.*

Professional landscaping
by an artist who sensed beauty has made Lincoln
High School lovely from any angle one views it.
Here, the photographer has caught the lacy shadows of the birches that bend and twist upward on the rear grounds.

THOU TOWER AGAINST THE SKY

*You stand there so serene and tall,
Thou tower against the sky
Watching the lake, the city, and all
With a calm, benignant eye.*

*You seem to guard, yet notice not
The flood of youth below
The vibrant, pulsing, striving lot
Who come to seek, to know.*

*Each year beneath your watchful eye
Strong hands will pave the way
For men to climb to places high
Where, by God's grace, they'll stay.*

*And yet you stand in somber state
Viewing with cool disdain
The herd that issues from your gate
To form a living train.*

*Man made you, put you where you are
But God engraved your place;
Those you inspire will travel far
In life's uneven race.*

—Mary Eber '33.

To Our Faculty

*The graduating class
Of thirty-three
Extends it's good wishes
To the faculty;
We've been in your classes
These four years;
Now we depart
With hopes and fears.*

*Some of us may return,
Others will go on—
Shall we succeed or fail
When we have gone?
Shall we fulfill or
Surpass your expectation?
We cannot tell, but We'll show appreciation.*

*Our time spent in school
Has been a pleasure;
The memory will last
As a cherished treasure.
May we do well
When a grown-up generation;
Seeking paths that lead
To noble occupation.*

*Doctors and nurses,
Lawyers and teachers,
Plumbers, musicians,
Bankers and preachers;
Poor men and rich men,
Bosses and lords,
Roosevelts, Barrymores,
Kate Smiths and Fords.*

—Elaine Bugenhagen '33.

The old sorcerer astrologer, who foretold the destinies of kings and countries, and concocted charms against disease and sudden death, was the teacher and master of a day when superstition was widespread and Christianity battled paganism for superiority.

Few changes were made this year in the faculty of Lincoln High School. When school opened in September, four teachers who had been here the previous year—Mr. Baird, Miss Solloway, Mr. Nelson and Miss Watson—had accepted other positions and were, therefore, missing from their former places. Instead, we found four new teachers—Mr. Zeran, Miss Dolan, Miss Fischer and Mr. Magill.

Mr. Magill came to teach English and act as Head of the English Department. Mr. Zeran headed the Testing and Guidance Department and taught History. Miss Dolan taught classes in Junior English and History. Miss Fischer took Miss Watson's place in the Home Economics Department.

The course of study remained much the same, but the teachers' programs were, in some cases, changed. Mr. Stevenson taught German in addition to his English work; Mr. Boyd directed both the Senior and Junior bands; Mr. Wood taught English in addition to his mathematics classes. Miss Clark had a Latin class, Miss Miller one in Geography, Miss Batz a class in History etc. All teachers carried heavy teaching loads, in most cases, five classes, or the equivalent, and an assembly part time, which usually left them with no freedom for class preparation during the day. However, all teachers bravely shouldered the extra responsibility shifted upon them, due to the large enrollment and the retrenchments brought about by the "depression."

CLASSES

The bowman, in mediaeval days, instructed his son in the art of archery. When the young squire or "free lance" had mastered the technique of war, he was off to try his skill in the battles of France, Holland, or Spain.

SENIOR CLASS ACTIVITIES

This is Station "L.H.S." broadcasting—reviewing the senior activities of the past school year. Stand by!

The upper classmen came marching solemnly back to their last year in high school September sixth, with eyes downcast and features grave, as was befitting lordly seniors.

To prove they weren't on their "last legs," however, the seniors sponsored an all-school dance and seemed mighty spry for such "ancients."

In football, the senior men deservedly won their letters. Those to whom these awards were given were: Frederick Baugniet, Harry Kelley, John Kraemer, Gordon Langenkamp, Charles Reddin, Leonard Robichaud, Joe Simon, Eugene Stiefvater, Robert Teirgen, Carl Wernecke, George Willott, Joseph Ward, Edward Martin, and Francis Zeckel.

February 3, a record crowd saw an excellently well-acted senior class play called "That Ferguson Family." The cast included: Esther Kipen, Frederick Baugniet, Elaine Bugenhagen, Edward Martin, John Van Groll, Marion Hannah, Vernon Aleksen, Dorothy West, William Wiese, and Elaine Brennan, with Dorothy Mae Birkholz and Kenneth Rank as understudies.

This year was noted for the first public appearance of a mixed chorus which sang at three performances, one number in conjunction with the band. A good many seniors appeared in this group.

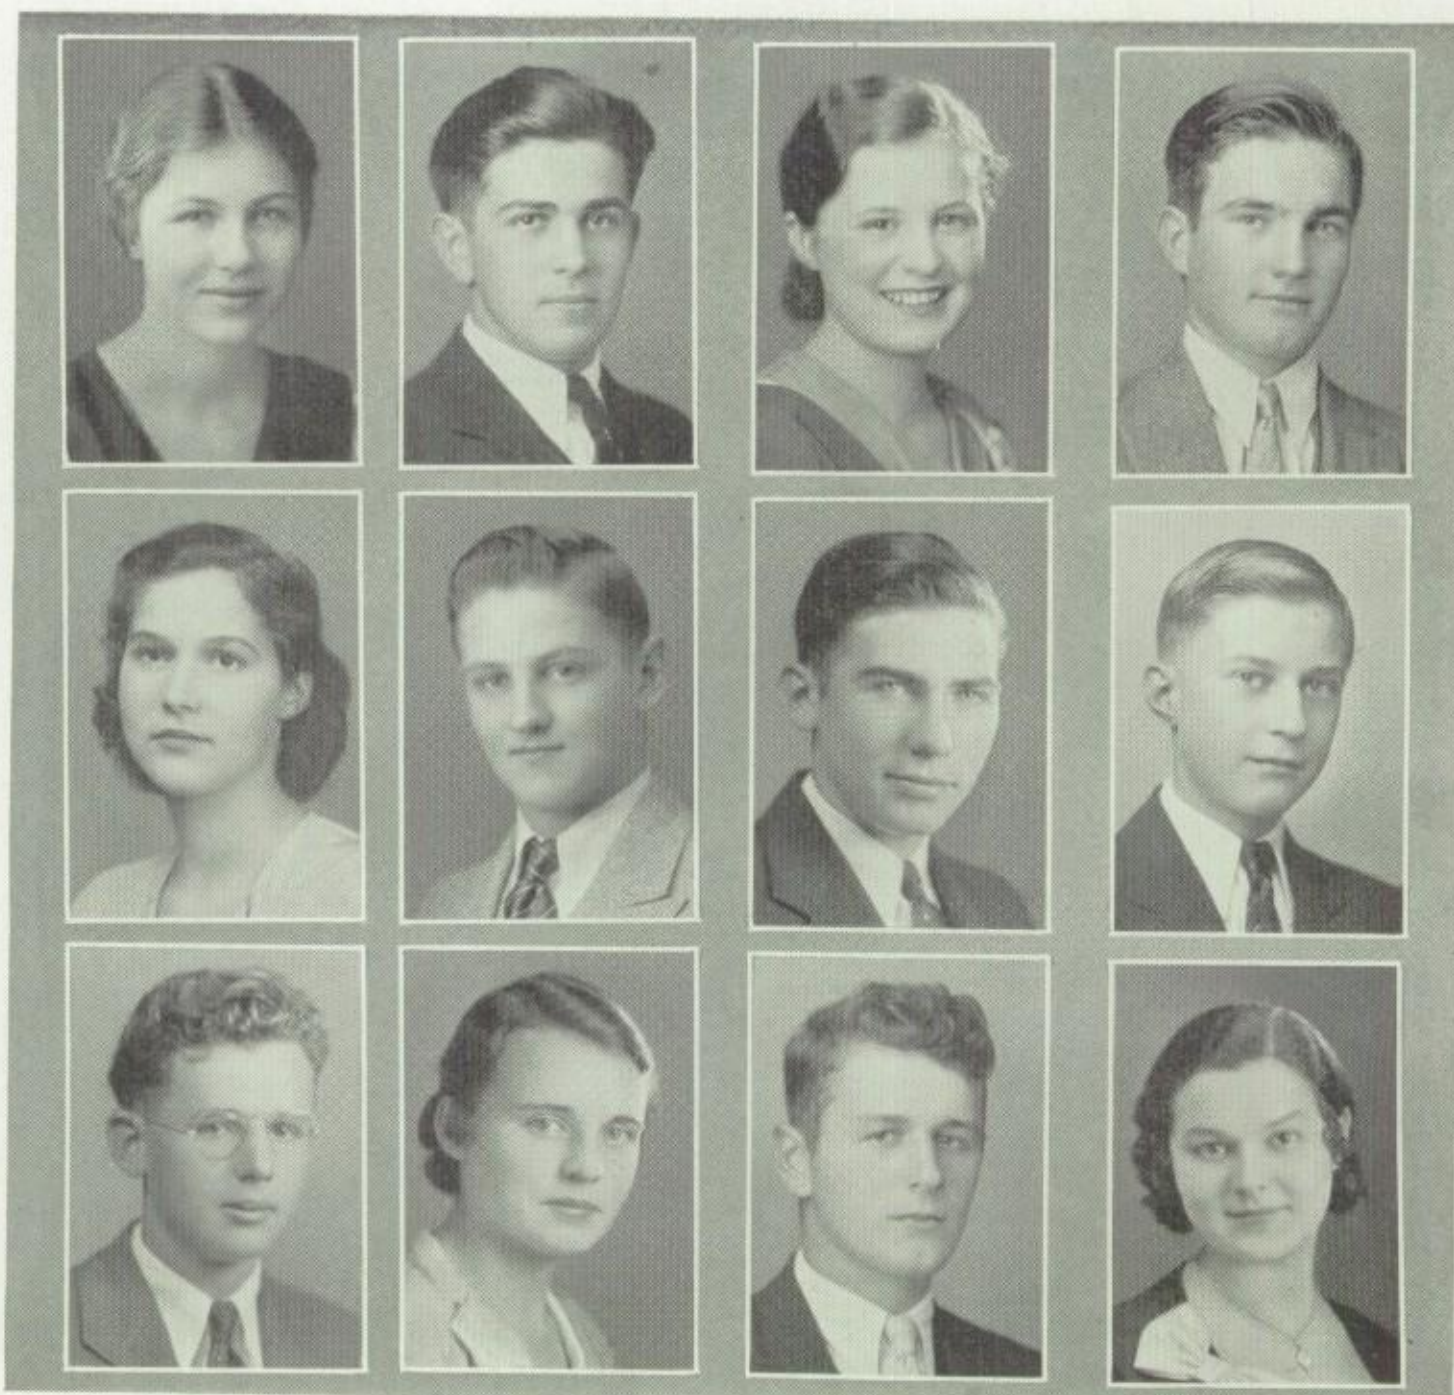

The senior band lost some of its best players this year. Those leaving the rank and file were: William Wiese, Harley Metzger, Earl Kreie, Frederick Clark, George Evanson, Holman King, Michael Gospadarek, Virginia Steckmesser, Karl Kluth, Marion Fox, Russell Kirchner, Kenneth Leist, June-Marie Houston, Lucille Wellhoefer, Harry Beck, Donald Groll, Leroy Ullrich, Albert Shwantes, Carl Geisler, Joseph Shimon, and Francis Zeckel.

In the fall declamatory contest, we were sobered by Esther Kipen's winning speech, laughed until our sides ached at Mary Margaret Norman's skit which won second place, and also at Elaine Bugenhagen's which placed third. Esther represented Manitowoc at Green Bay, and did creditably. Mary Margaret, Elaine, and Esther represented Manitowoc in the State contest at Lawrence College, Appleton, April 7 and 8. Esther placed second in the state and Elaine fifth.

Kenneth Neubauer won first place in the school oratory contest, and Frederick Baugniet placed second. Frederick won first place in the school extempore contest. These two boys represented Lincoln High School in the contest at Appleton.

May we now become lyrical and rave about the basketball team which lost one game out of ten conference games, and tied Appleton for first place in the conference? The seniors leaving this group were: Co-captain Ralph Kohls, John Kraemer, Gordon Langenkamp, Joe Tomchek, Robert Rand, and Harry Kelley.

Only those seniors who maintained an average of at least 92.5 for their four years in high school are eligible for the Senior Honor Roll. The school honor roll lists only those students whose names appeared on three out of the first four honor rolls.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

One of the highest distinctions that any student can achieve is election to the National Honor Society. Since the organization of the honor chapter three years ago, membership in the society has become something for which to strive.

Members are chosen by a committee of six teachers. This year the committee was composed of Mr. Stangel, Miss Bennett, Miss Rudolph, Mr. Ap-lin, Miss Clark, and Mr. Burke.

Only those students who rank in the upper third of their class in regard to scholarship are eligible. Fifteen percent of this portion of the senior class and five percent of the upper third of the junior class are granted membership every year.

Leadership, character, scholarship and service to the school are considered in making the choice of members.

Richard Gerl, Esther Kipen, Bernard Schuh, Holman King, and Elaine Brennan were the seniors chosen during their junior year. The seniors who became members this year are: Mary Eber, Rosa Lee Wood, Alice Rysticken, Alice Mueller, Frederick Baugniet, Harry Kelley, William Wiese, and June-Marie Houston. The juniors elected this year were: Grace Loeffler, Robert Stiefvater, Bill Schuette, and Lillian Bruechert.

At a business meeting held February twenty-eighth, Esther Kipen was elected president, Harry Kelley, vice president, Alice Rysticken, secretary, and Frederick Baugniet, treasurer. Miss Bennett has advised the group for the past two years.

The swimming team experienced rather a discouraging season, but several seniors frolicked off with individual honors. Those were: Leonard Robichaud, John Schroeder, Francis Zeckel, Carl Geisler, and Charles Paulus.

Journalism crooked its fingers at quite a large number of students. The senior personnel of the "Flambeau" Staff included Alice Rysticken, as editor-in-chief, Frederick Baugniot, as business manager, and Paul Truttschel, June-Marie Houston, Alice Mueller, Dorothy Sterling, Ardis Albano, Henry Cisler, Eugene Krejarek, Helen Geiger, Dorothy Mae Birkholz, Winifred Vetting, Priscilla Pank, Leonard Robichaud, Kenneth Neubauer, John Isselman, Kenneth Rank, Ruby Weiss, and Hattie Schmidtman as staff members.

The highest honor to be attained in high school is election to the National Honor Society. Eight new senior members were admitted to the fold, adding to the five who gained this honor when they were juniors. Those who were members last year are: Richard Gerl, Elaine Brennan, Bernard Schuh, Esther Kipen, and Holman King. The more recent entrees are: Mary Eber, Alice Rysticken, Rosa Lee Wood, Alice Mueller, Frederick Baugniot, Harry Kelley, William Wiese, and June-Marie Houston.

At a class meeting, the seniors voted whether they should wear caps and gowns for graduation, but a majority preferred to flutter about like birds of paradise instead of donning the conventional gray.

The maxim, "They Conquer Who Believe They Can," was chosen as the motto for the class of '33, and the sweet pea as the representative flower.

Having experienced two exciting years in Lincoln High School, the juniors, recently elevated to the ranks of the upper classmen, displayed decided interest not only in scholastic affairs but also in the varied extra-curricular activities open to them.

Under the advisorship of Miss Dedrick and Mr. Napiecinski, the first social undertaking of the Juniors was the all-school dance, given on November 18. "Feetsbasket Ball," a humorous skit very appropriately titled, was presented. As the game was a combination of football and basketball, the players were comically garbed in a conglomerate equipment. Music was furnished by the De Molay orchestra.

When the football season opened, the Junior boys turned out in surprising numbers. Many of the regulars were taken from this group. Although the outcome of the valley conference proved rather disastrous for Manty, Edward Ulovitz, letter man in his sophomore year, Bill Schuette, Bob Stiefvater, Roland Heinz, Cyril Miller, Ray Nichols and others displayed unfailing perseverance. The boys named above received awards.

Basketball, too, seemed a favorite of the Junior athletes. This year, the team won the coveted Fox River Valley title. That is, they tied with Appleton. Their success was due much to the efforts of Co-Captain Bill Schuette, captain elect, Edward Ulovitz, and Oscar Johnsrud, who received "M's" for their efforts. Besides, Victor Fidler and Ray Nichols cheerfully contributed their services in many of the games. The official all-conference team named Bill Schuette as a guard. He was the only Manitowoc player to attain this honor.

Mr. Lindwall's mermen were also largely Juniors. Among these swimmers were: Bob Randolph and Kenneth Notz, (Co-Captain elect) Bernard Jansen, Robert Fargo, Emil Beers and Bob Madsen, all of whom displayed unusual prowess.

- Row 1*—Edward Donahue, Russell Bartelme, Joe Brennan, Robert Borchardt, Douglas Bannerman, Adeline Busse, Olive Boeder, Dorothy Brixius, Virginia Brixius, Jerome Cooper, Oscar Dick, Mark Barbeau, Sylvester Barbeau, Victor Baumann.

The Junior tennis enthusiasts were many and included Robert Borchardt, Douglas Bannerman, David Walling, Billy Ohde.

Track was also a favorite.

Forensics, too, opened possibilities to the class of '34. Roy Newlin and Paul Koritzinsky were capable orators. In extemporaneous speaking, Ursula Bagniet placed second with John Zimdar, third.

Rhoda Ann Zeisler and Kathryn Barnstein were active in declamatory.

On May 5, before a large audience, twelve Junior students presented "Jonesy," a three-act comedy, in the auditorium. The play centered about Wilbur Jones, who, returning from college, brought his millionaire pal, Billy Morgan, with him. As a result of Jonesy's infatuation with the beautiful Diana Deveraux, an actress, his fiance broke the engagement and, instead, found happiness with Billy Morgan—or rather, with Billy's three million a year. Besides Wilbur's getting into many scrapes, Mr. Jones, his father, became entangled in business complications. The cast included Bob Stiefvater, Gerald Ferguson, Charles Brady, Charlotte Randolph, Ethel Mathieu, Violet Sobieski, Kathryn Norris, Leonard Woytal with Paul Koritzinsky and Bernice Egan as the understudies. Mr. Novitski coached the players.

The proceeds of the class play went to cover the cost of sponsoring the big social event of the year, the Junior Promenade, which took place June 9. Following no definite theme, as in other years, in order to lower expenses, the decorations consisted of a black starry sky overhead with a crystal ball chandelier and violet and silver (the Senior colors) drapings on the sides. To the measured strains of Wally Beau's orchestra, Phil Miles, Prom chairman, and his queen, Grace Loeffler, led the Grand March.

The Senior band also had its share of third year students. Junior members were: Robert Borchardt, Ellis Clayton, Allan De Faut, Donald Dill, Billy Ohde, Bernard Jansen, Grace Loeffler, David Walling, Priscilla Moore, Charles Krumm. Anita Hansen, Charles Brady, and Mary Reddin served on the school paper, the "Hi-Tower Flashes."

Perhaps the greatest honor that can be bestowed upon any student is that of being selected a member of the National Honor Society. The four chosen from this year's class were: Bob Stiefvater, Bill Schuette, Lillian Bruechert and Grace Loeffler.

With three fourths of their school years behind them, the Juniors look hopefully toward their last year as Seniors.

HOW TO BE HAPPY

My idea of perfect happiness, or a Utopia on earth, is a wilderness such as Columbus found when he first landed on this fair continent. Of course, everyone has a different viewpoint on this subject, but, if I were given the opportunity to pick my place in life, I would choose the life of a backwoodsman in some God-forsaken spot in the far North. All I would ask would be a cabin on some beautiful lake and the chance to combat the elements and make a living from the forest and stream, just as the Indians and pioneers did. In the early development of our country, the test of a man was his ability to sink an axe deep, obtain a living from nature, and fight Indians. I think, if men were given those opportunities today, we would really find some real "he-men" instead of the excuses for men we do find. That is the trouble with this nation at the present time. We are becoming too mechanical and, instead of becoming self-reliant creatures, we are becoming helpless ones.

What is the sense, anyway, of all this hustle and bustle of life? Probably the aim of nearly everyone is the accumulation of wealth. But, after all, what is wealth? Gold? This shining metal is something we cannot eat, or cannot wear, but still we continue to make money our god and ourselves slaves to it. Why should we go on making robots of ourselves instead of the real men and women God intended us to be? Why? —Frederick Baugniet '33.

HOW TO BE HAPPY

Happiness, in my estimation, is a momentary state of mind that departs when a person is again confronted with the realities of life. A person is truly happy when he is in a state of ecstasy that excludes all worldly troubles. There are, however, periods in everyone's life when he is supremely happy. For instance, the youth with his first air rifle is so overjoyed with the gift that he forgets for the moment the work he has promised to do to make himself worthy of that selfsame gift. But such happiness departs as the novelty of the delightful experience wears off. The child with few desires and needs is easily made joyful; but as our years and education increase, our wants also increase and become harder to satisfy. It is generally conceded that a sophisticated person, who has everything that would make an uneducated man happy, still finds something lacking in his life.

Happiness, no matter how we strive for it, always seems just beyond our reach. The primitive man with his few desires was by far happier than we, who, living in a cosmopolitan world, always find ourselves wanting that which we cannot have and being extremely unhappy.

True and lasting happiness will only be obtained when the cares and strife of life are abolished and mankind begins to practise the rule, "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

AN EVENING AT HOME

"Dad! Turn on the radio!" Alice shouted as the beginning of a peaceful evening when all the family stays home. "Dad" sighed and went over to the radio. In a little while, Alice could hear the voice of President Roosevelt who, on that night, was making a speech. "We don't want to listen to that!" came Alice's bored voice.

"No," Jack put in, "turn the dial around and get the sports report."

"Sports"! Alice looked exasperated. "Who wants to hear about sports. That's all you ever want. Turn on the orchestra from——"

"Children!" Mrs. White, who had been silent before, looked up from her mending. "Please be quiet! Your father has had a hard day at the office."

"What would you like to hear, Mother?" asked Mr. White. "I'll tune in whatever you want."

"I would like to hear that concert from W.T.M.J."

Mr. White tuned in the concert, and all the family sat quietly. However, the silence lasted only for a moment. "How do you expect a guy to do his homework with all that racket?" Jack asked, looking up from his history book.

"Can't the little boy study?" Alice asked. To her mother she said, "I think you'd like some dance music better than that."

"I guess you'd better turn the radio off altogether," Mrs. White said to her husband.

"Not when I have only a few hours to hear it. Jack, go up to your room and study," Mr. White ordered.

"But I want to hear the reports on those games," Jack insisted.

"No, 'Dad', that orchestra will be gone in a little while," Alice pleaded.

"Well, who cares about your old orchestra!" Jack answered fiercely.

"Do you think that your old sports report is any better than an orchestra? You must be cracked!"

"Is that——," Jack began.

"Quit arguing with your sister, Jack," Mrs. White reproved.

"Blame it on me again! I always get the blame. She started it! She always starts everything and I get the blame!" Jack sulked.

"Be careful. Don't shout at your mother," Mrs. White said sternly.

Jack looked angrily at his sister, and then settled down to his work.

As the concert had ended, Mr. White turned the dial around to try other stations. "Is your child wretched and unhappy? Does he holler at the least little thing? Give him Bailey's Castor Oil," came the voice of an announcer.

Mr. and Mrs. White glanced at each other. "That's a good idea. Give them castor oil," Mr. White pondered aloud.

Jack and Alice looked up. "I guess I'll go to bed," Jack said. "I've finished my homework."

"I guess I will, too," Alice put in.

As the children hurried out of the room, Mr. White winked at his wife.

Sophomores may be likened to submarines coming to the surface, unnoticed and submerged as freshmen, but more and more recognizable as their prows reach the air.

In their first year of competition, Willott Pitz, Rex John, Jr., Michael Musial, Rudd McFarland, and Harry Wilda have caused considerable comment because of football prowess. Harry Wilda was the only first team letter man this year, but Mr. Winder asserts that the other boys also will have an opportunity to earn and sport the red and white "M" next year.

Although Rex John, Jr., Robert Vollendorf, Bill Muth, Willott Pitz, Harry Wilda, Robert Hamachek, and Marvin Korleski confined their basketball efforts to the second team this year, as juniors, they will be candidates for the first team.

The sophomores have the honor of having in their midst the twirling drum major, Arnold Gass.

Charlotte Meany and Madaline Trastek were the sophomore contestants in the school declamatory try-outs. Both girls are expected to be participants in the regular school contests in coming years.

Louis Cummings, Robert Zimdar, Robert Hrudka, Billy Muth, and Charles Sutter turned out for Tennis.

The "fishes" were: Edwin Hansen, Henry Kinzel, Robert Lomphrey, Herman McKenna, and Robert Storms.

The sophomore class is very proud of its eight first-band members: Joseph Cigler, William Daeke, David Novak, Dale Panosh, Paul Schmitz, Constance Weber, Edward Sladkey, and John Svacina.

Charlotte Nelles, Florence Egan, Kathleen Fewings, Bessie Friedman, and Lois Johnson were the sophomore girls who aspired to the heights of Helen Wills in tennis.

The girl basketball stars included: Elmyra Halderson, Charlotte Nelles, Katherine Gretz, Jane Koepsel, and Mollie Endries.

Dolores Shoblaska was a sophomore winner in the girls' swimming meet.

Louise Bovard was appointed to the staff of the "Manitou-Hi-Tower Flashes."

Dale Panosh, Francis Ploederl, Warburton Maertz, and Robert Lamphrey were the high-point Intramural boys.

The Sophomores are quite elated over the proud recognition won in the different fields and can hardly await until, as seniors, their submarine floats atop the high seas.

NOTES ON NOTES

Notes may be classified under two headings: the notes passed in classes and the notes taken in classes. The former are classed by many teachers as the most common and unnecessary evils in high school, while those taken in classes from the students by the teachers are regarded by said students as tickets to the tardy room or dates with their teachers at three forty-five. Naturally, in both instances, the notes must be written by pupils. Therefore, let us discuss the "Fine Art of Note Writing and Why it is Not Taught in High Schools."

Notes usually originate with some high school Romeo who is himself probably a note. (In this case, my children, Mr. Webster says a note is an obsolete form of nut.) Of course, this person is probably noting the fact that spring is near. This, a dangerous type of note, results in the thrilling state of "puppy love," which, Eddie Cantor claims, "leads one to the dogs."

There is also the type of note that you find scattered hither and thither in classroom, assembly, and auditorium. The substance of this note we shall allow to remain a mystery, but if your curiosity is like that of the proverbial cat, you will gather the scraps, jiggle them as you would jiggle a jig-saw puzzle, and, presto, satisfaction exterminates curiosity.

Notes are said to come handy in classrooms where whispering is prohibited. After many furtive passings of books, droppings of handkerchiefs, and other wily manipulations, the teacher, who has been apparently unconscious until now, politely requests that the missive, still unopened by its receiver, be handed over. This is exasperating, and the results are apt to be embarrassing. If you want to know what the teacher does about it, try it some time; you may find the experiment enlightening.

The art of writing notes is the only accomplishment in which students are proficient. Hence its exclusion from the high school curriculum is justifiable.

TWIDDLE

The art most helpful to a student is the Art of Knowing How to Twiddle. Twiddle, as defined by Webster, is a slight twist or twirling motion with, or as with, the fingers.

There are many ways to twiddle your fingers, but the most simple ways are to twiddle the thumbs backward and forward. After you have mastered this method, the next step is to twiddle your thumbs in opposite directions. This is more difficult and will take a slightly longer time in which to become proficient. Following this, learn to twiddle the index fingers in unison with

I REMEMBER

Should anyone question you about the city of Manitowoc, you would, I am sure, without any hesitancy, boast of its fine harbor, its beautiful high school building and its good beer. Far be it from me to discuss the matter of ale, since I have never taken it upon myself to analyze its contents, and only with great reluctance would I vouchsafe to offer any information concerning the Manitowoc harbor for, I must confess, my knowledge of it is scant indeed.

But I feel that I am thoroughly justified in giving my frank opinion of the high school which gave me my first diploma. I shall always remember the day when I first ambled up that long, sloping flagstone walk some four years ago. Only then did I realize that I was to attend high school.

There it stood, in red magnificence, this mammoth monument to higher education, this supreme sacrifice of the city taxpayer. Ideally located, flawless in structure, and surrounded by long, rolling lawns, it stood guarded by khaki-shirted janitors who defied any comer to set foot upon the grass.

With difficulty, I opened the heavy brown door and gazed in awe upon the lengthy halls, the floors freshly waxed and spotlessly clean. Rows of brown lockers lined the halls, their continuity broken at intervals by half-glass doors which led to well-kept classrooms.

After what seemed to me a day of endless confusion, I found myself again outside the school with a small piece of paper clutched in my fist—a paper which contained the daily routine I was to follow during the coming term. The next morning I set out to follow my schedule. Promptly at eight o'clock I sat in a massive assembly, gazing out of the window, overwhelmed by the beauty of the view.

I REMEMBER

The lake, roiled by a stiff east wind, sent large breakers beating against the sandy shore, in a vain attempt to engulf a string of black boxcars. Through an open window came the sweetness of the September air, heavy with the virile odor of vinegar, a product of a nearby factory.

My first class was one in mathematics, and while the instructor dealt with a problem concerning the speed of sound, a roaring locomotive just below the hill did all that was mechanically possible to illustrate its volume.

When, in the afternoon, I attended a class on the third floor, I cautiously glanced out of the window to look upon the town as it lay sprawled to the north. I had heard it said that one could see the entire city from this point, but all that was visible to me was a mass of dirty housetops and innumerable tall smokestacks of local industries, draping the community in soot and smoke. However, since the market crash, this fault has been eliminated, as the stacks no longer belch forth smoke, but appear as long black sticks—quite inoffensive.

Thus I was impressed by Lincoln High. While quite overwhelmed by its beauty, I was not blind to its defects: but, lest I be branded as a faultfinder, or be suspected of base ingratitude, I wish to state that, despite its few unavoidable flaws, it is still, in my opinion, the finest school I have ever seen.

September 6, 1932, brought another group of students to spend their first year at Lincoln High School as Freshmen. The massive building awed the students at first, as they wandered through the halls, gazing into the classrooms, to the auditorium where their programs were arranged and homerooms and studyhalls assigned. The number was smaller this year, because of the number enrolled in the new Woodrow Wilson Junior High School.

Richard Schmitz, Russel Novak, Berle Hrabik, and Victor Bokoreck were the four Freshmen boys in the first band. Richard Posvic was claimed by the orchestra. Janis Potratz, Gertrude Virgills, Ruth McCarthy, and Eleanor Wiese represented the Freshmen in declamatory.

The different sports appealed to the boys. Football attracted Winford Miller, Nathan Swerdlow and Albert Le Clair; boxing, Jerry Brennan and Guido Maertz. Jack McCormick dived in several of the swimming meets in which the first swimming team appeared.

The Freshmen climaxed the year with the all-school dance, given April 21. The first year of high school calls for many adjustments on the part of the Freshmen and it is, therefore, not until the Sophomore year, usually, that students begin to "find themselves" and become outstanding in the different extra-curricular activities.

the thumbs. This may also be done forward, backward, and in opposite directions. Twiddling is a very pretty sight; it is fascinating, too, if the twiddling is done quickly.

The art of finger twiddling is especially useful at uninteresting lectures. It furnishes entertainment not only for yourself, but also for everyone seated near you. This art furnishes diversion in classrooms, too. Nor does it lack educational value as it develops speed and accuracy, two things most essential in this Modern age. Since twiddling develops these traits, all schools ought to organize twiddling corps which would have for their motto: "Twiddle-de, Twiddle-de, Twiddle Dee Dee."

ON WRITING AN ESSAY

I am seized with a desire to this time write an essay that will make the teacher's sides shake with laughter or his eyes fill with tears—something really good. What shall I choose for my subject. I dunno—but that will come. First, I make sure that, during the next hour, I will not be bothered by anyone or anything—for what genius can produce a masterpiece without complete solitude? Then I turn the radio down low—not off, for, to me, music is inspirational. Now I have the correct atmosphere and am ready—but no! I've forgotten the tools. Tools are most important, so I waste ten precious minutes of the first hour hunting and sharpening two long, soft, lead pencils. I place half a dozen clean sheets of paper upon the dining room table, right underneath the lamp. Then I sit down and begin the essay.

Before writing any words, however, I fill the paper with circles, squares, faces, and similar nonsensical marks for the purpose of trying out the pencils, and limbering up my arm. Then I commence working—but not with the pencil and paper. Oh, no. One cannot write without first thinking and so I think, and think, and think. Finally, I hit upon an original, interesting theme that certainly has never been thought of before—"My dog!" Again I think, but, it must be confessed that my thoughts do not dwell wholly upon the subject of the essay. I write a few lines—something like this:

"I have a dog. My dog's name is spot. He is black and has white spots That is why we named him Spot."

At about this time, my brain refuses to function. Perhaps if I took a little recreation—something to relax my head—more ideas would gush forth. So I rise and try out the latest dance step—a tricky little hop, skip, and jump hard to master. After about three or four attempts, I am interrupted by a cry which arises from downstairs to the effect that the plaster is already weak and will no longer stand up under the strain of my hops.

ON WRITING AN ESSAY

Forty-five minutes have now trickled down through the glass of time. I resear myself and continue my efforts. With a few more lines, I reach the parentage of Spot. Here I again pause. I am stuck. After several false attempts, I quit, groaning, "What's the use? I'd rather take a zero."

A book, a deep, comfortable chair, an apple, several pieces of candy, and a dish of peanuts hold my attention for the remainder of the evening.

On the following day, while a history teacher is talking too much, I get a sudden inspiration, grab a sheet of half-scribbled scratch paper, dig up a stubby pencil, and dash off three hundred words of nonsense that do, in spite of all, succeed in "pulling" a laugh and, incidentally, an "A."

LINCOLN HIGH

(Song—Written for Seniors, to tune of "Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life")

Oh! dear Lincoln High at last we have to leave you

Ah! at last our day has turned unto the dawn

All the longing, striving, waiting yearning

The burning hopes—the joys and happiness we had are gone.

But your tower ever rising will be shining

And upon our path its light will ever shine

*As we go on striving upward, onward
Oh be it here or in some other clime.*

*Oh! the path of life we take is stormy
But on and on forever on we go.
For 'tis you that'll aid us in our striving*

Until we reach our joy—our hope our goal.

Activities

Early minstrels sang of love and romance, history and brave deeds. Roaming, gay and frivolous, these fellows, whose loves were a kaleidoscope of different places and patrons, laid the foundation for the birth of Renaissance literature.

SPEECH ACTIVITIES

Eleven boys responded to the call for entrants in the oratorical contest. The elimination contest was held March 15 in which five out of the eleven were chosen to compete in the finals on March 24. In this final contest, Kenneth Neubauer, a senior, delivering the oration, "The Curse of Plenty," was selected as Manitowoc's representative to the Fox River Valley Conference at West Green Bay, on April 5. Frederick Baugniel, another senior, won second place and Paul Koritzinsky, a junior, won third.

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKING

An unusually large number of boys and girls turned out for extemporaneous speaking this year. In the local contest on March 29, Frederick Baugniel received first place while Ursula Baugniel received second place.

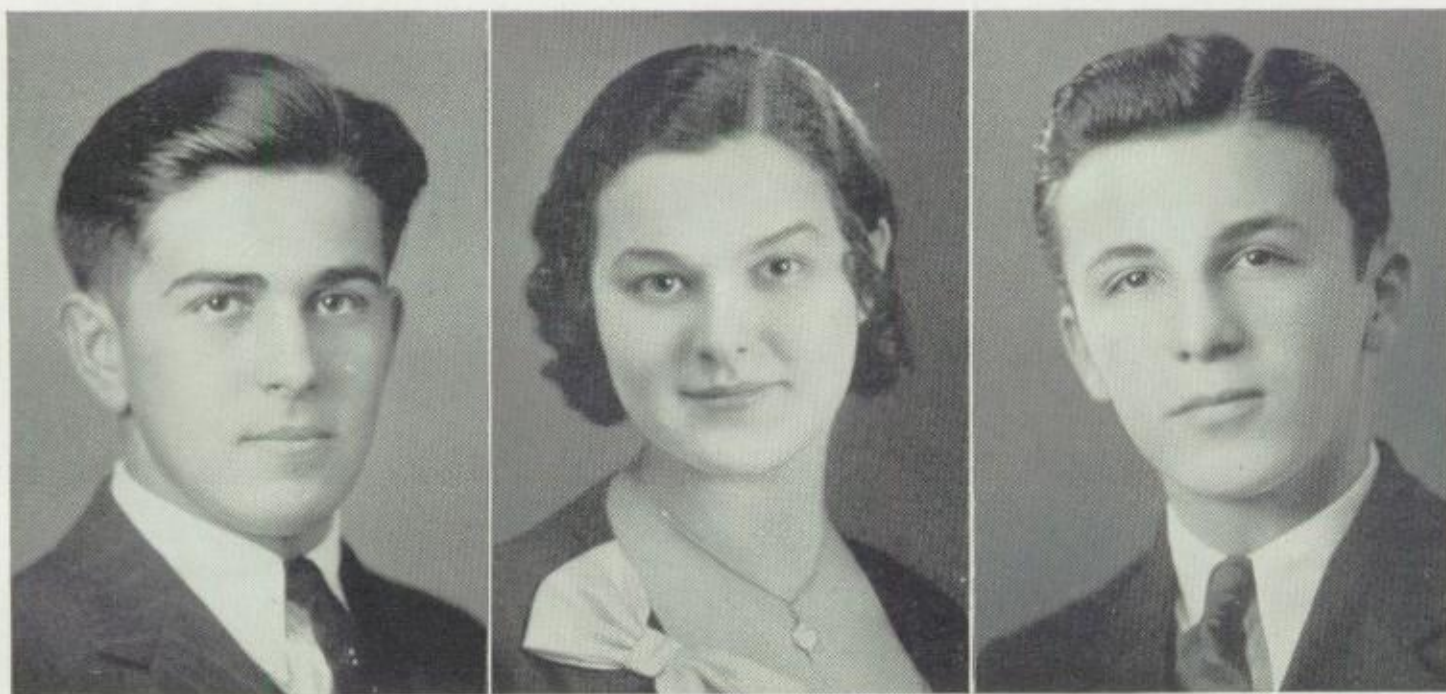

In the Fox River Valley Contest at Marinette May 10, Frederick Baugniel placed first.

DEBATE

"Resolved, that at least fifty percent of all state and local revenues should be derived from sources other than tangible property," was the question for debate selected this year. Due to a lack of appropriate financial support, the school did not send a debate team to the state or conference meets this year.

DECLAMATORY

Twenty girls responded to the call for entrants in the declamatory contest. At the local elimination contest held in October, five girls were selected to enter the finals and in these finals, four were selected to represent our school. Esther Kipen, a senior, won first place with the selection, "Laughter of Leen," Esther represented Manitowoc at the Fox River Valley Conference Contest held at East Green Bay and received fifth place. Mary Margaret Norman won second place in the local contest with the selection, "At the Chautauqua." Elaine Bugenhagen and Rhoda Ann Zeisler, the other two winners, tied for third. Esther won second in the National Forensic league contest at Appleton.

From the beginning, the Radio Club has enjoyed unusual popularity among radio-minded boys. Its purpose is to stimulate an active interest in the fundamentals of radio and a better understanding of the principles involved. Much stress is put on the construction of sets, short and long waves. Many members have built simple sets that operate with gratifying success. No one can realize fully the satisfaction of operating a simple set of home construction until he has had the experience.

Radio offers many interesting vocations and is a great aid to further study in the electrical field. A great deal of patience is required in building sets so that they will operate perfectly and be attractive.

The club owes a debt of gratitude to our local radio station for the splendid cooperation given during the past season. A talk was given to the boys by Mr. Hal Forest, local operator. At the close of his talk, Mr. Forest was literally besieged with questions from interested boys.

Despite the lack of equipment, conscientious work on the part of the members and the supervisor, Mr. Fuller, has kept an active spirit prevailing throughout the school term.

This year, the chemistry club was divided into three divisions: one, the electroplating division, composed of boys interested in electroplating; another the photography group, composed of students desirous of learning the intricacies of photography; the third, the home preparations group, composed of girls interested in making home preparations.

The electroplating group, after performing copperplating experiments, successfully copperplated several objects.

The photography division developed a number of films and read about the different methods of developing.

The girls in the home preparations group performed a number of experiments which ended with the manufacture of perfumed water, talcum powder, and other home cosmetic articles.

All in all, the chemistry club has lived up to its aim and purpose, namely: to provide further opportunity for the students to delve into the mysteries of modern chemistry.

The Clio Club, although one of the newer clubs, has rapidly gained in popularity until, now, it is one of the largest and most active in Lincoln High. The name "Clio" is taken from Clio, the daughter of Jupiter, whose special field was history and her specific work, that of keeping before man the fame of those who had died. "Veritas," or "Truth," has been chosen as the motto of the club, and bears out the idea that history is based on fact and truth.

For those students who enjoy history and the story of humanity, the Clio Club has been organized.

Aside from the regular program during the club period, the club also presents an annual Christmas program in the auditorium. Each year, to some deserving senior, the club offers a hundred-dollar scholarship, and raises the sum by giving a play or some other form of entertainment in the auditorium, with a small admission charge. The play is well supported as the students appreciate the purpose for which the scholarship is given.

This year, five members presented "Mary Comes Home From College," a one-act comedy by Lucile Crites, as the history club play. The cast of characters was as follows: Mary Smith, the co-ed home from college, Carol Kotick; Bill Jones, the hero, Edward Martin; Clarence Van De Vere, the villain, John Van Groll; Mrs. Smith, Mary's mother, Dorothy West; Mr. Smith, the father, Frederick Baugniet. Two fond parents send the daughter, Mary, to college. But, upon her return, after her first year, she shocks their old-fashioned modesty with her collegeiate actions, attempts to "make over" the family and the home, and causes distress in general. Clarence Van De Vere, a college lover, visits her, but she changes her mind about her love for him when she sees him as he really is, a coward, and again falls in love with her childhood sweetheart.

By a study of history, the present generation can profit by the mistakes of the past, and work toward a brighter future.

The art club, open to any pupil in school who is registered in an art class, this year celebrated its fourth anniversary—the fourth happy, interesting year of its existence. In the limited club periods, large projects or extensive studies of art subjects could not be undertaken. Interior decorating, the making of posters done in oils for theatres, pastels, painting of Christmas cards etc. were topics for discussion.

Have you ever imagined a world without art? Everything would be a neutral, colorless shade—bare and uninteresting. Our furniture would be crude, without design, and undecorated. Even from the earliest times, man has sought beauty and, through beauty, art. Many of our present laws of art are derived from the early Greeks whose love of beauty is still evident.

To aid young people in art appreciation is the purpose of the art club. Who knows but that the amateurs of today may become the accomplished artists of tomorrow? The work of the students who were members of the Art Club went on display in the annual art exhibit held in April.

The German Club exists for the purpose of providing additional opportunity for students to make a more detailed study of German than regular class time permits. The club periods help to bring the student into closer touch with German literature, science, architecture, music, forms of recreation, and habits of living.

Any foreign language has a vast educational value. In recent years, modern foreign languages have rapidly been rising in importance to take their places beside the ancient and classical languages. The tourist class has increased greatly in recent years. And for those who travel, some knowledge of foreign languages is essential. Since American commerce has spread to so many foreign ports, there is also a constant call for people who have a speaking and reading knowledge of the languages spoken in countries where American capital is invested.

Knowledge of a foreign language helps to promote friendliness among nations. Napoleon summed up the value of a foreign language when he said, "A man who knows two languages is worth two men."

The Health Club was organized in order to create among the students a greater interest in good health. The club is open to students of any class who are interested in health and willing to take an active part in club work. This year the group is much larger than it has been in previous years, and, for the third time, it is made up entirely of girls.

Dr. Stangel was the guest speaker at the first meeting. He talked on "Diet, Its Relationship to the Body," and "The Necessity of Rest." At other meetings the members of the club gave talks on health and contributed to the program musical numbers, readings, and plays. Many of the meetings closed with the singing of popular songs or the club's own special health songs. At the annual outing, held in the spring, a special healthful picnic lunch, prepared and planned by the girls, was served.

Health and happiness are the two most important factors in life. As happiness is almost entirely dependent upon good health, the club symbol is quite appropriate—a crusader's shield for those who fight for good health in order to gain happiness.

Everyone has heard the statement that we are living in an age of science. Although science has advanced at a tremendous speed in the past twenty years, every day new fields open and discoveries are made.

The student who wishes to keep abreast with science today must have more time than the short periods in classrooms give, and the Physics Club periods give an opportunity for advance investigation. The club is open to all students who are enrolled in Physics Classes. The purpose of the club is to discuss the modern conditions related to Physics, and to get a better understanding of devices which employ the elementary principles of Physics.

Every member is required to make some contribution to the programs during the year. At various club meetings, different members discussed the discoveries and recent advancements made in science. Occasionally, moving pictures were shown. The moving pictures and carefully prepared student talks made a broader outlook possible. These club periods led students beyond the portals of dim obscurity into the realms of modern discoveries and scientific principles, without drilling, "pounding," or testing.

The Home Economics Club opens to its members an opportunity for practical application of the principles of homemaking studied in the regular home economics classes. Homemaking, a vital factor, includes many important subjects such as, food, its selection and proper preparation, clothing—its proper selection and care—the study of budgets or planning the wise use of the family income, and home management, or the ability to choose wisely furniture, pictures, and literature. The club tends to further knowledge of housekeeping and health, and to develop a spirit of cooperation.

Many people say that the modern girl of today accomplishes little in the art of homemaking or takes little interest in it. Nevertheless, we find the Home Economics Club overflowing with girls eager to grasp a further knowledge of the culinary arts. So many students joined the club that the girls were divided into three groups—upperclassmen, sophomores, and Freshmen.

Girls can make use of the information learned during these club periods in their own homes now, and, later on in life as well.

The advisors, Miss Fischer and Miss Stangel, are willing to help the girls with any of their problems or difficulties in homemaking. In this way, the club trains the girls to be better homemakers and helps them to attain correctness in manner, speech, and dress.

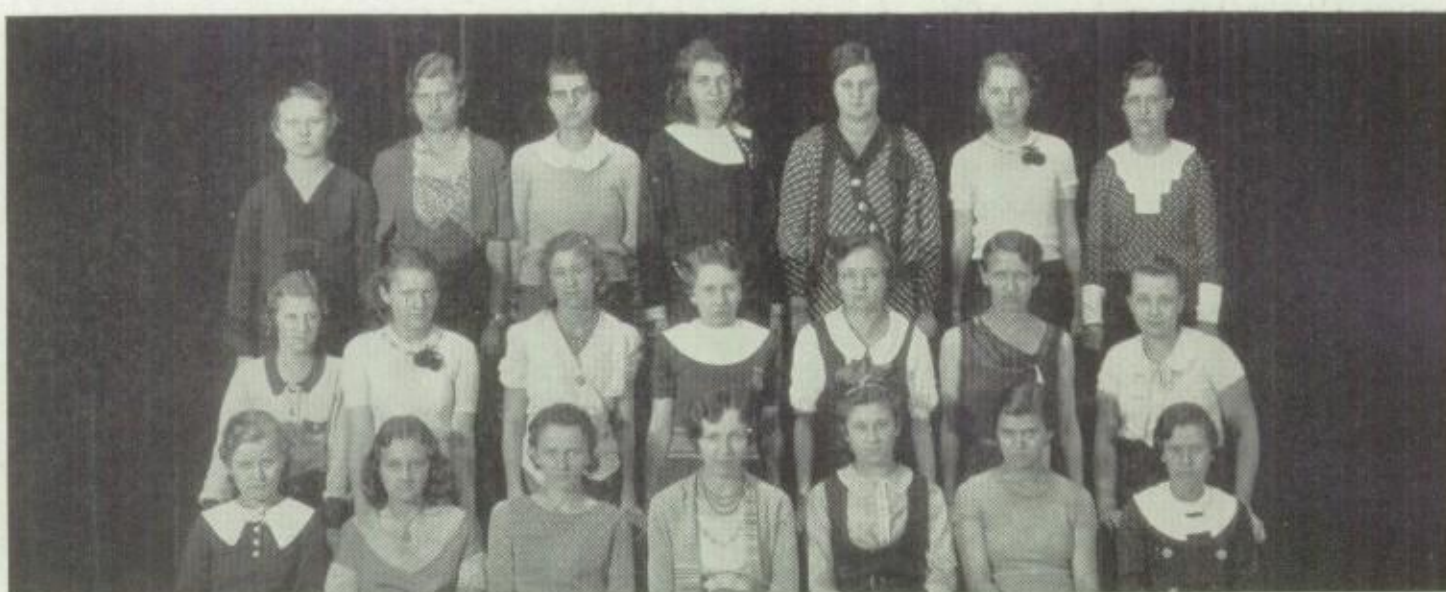

Several of the meetings were of particular interest. Miss Newman, the city nurse, spoke to the group on health, reminding the girls that health is one of the most essential requirements for beauty.

Mr. Willot Eggers gave a talk on interior decoration and showed samples of drapery materials and furniture.

The Evaporated Milk Association gave a demonstration of cooking with evaporated milk. The foods prepared were delicious.

At one of the later meetings, a downtown merchant put on a style show. Club members acted as models.

The last meeting was a picnic for which the girls planned and prepared the lunch, thus making use of the principles of out-door cookery.

The Senior Home Economics Club, consisting of junior and senior girls, has completed an entertaining and profitable club program. Most of the members had previously taken courses in the home economics department of the school, but welcomed the opportunity of club companionship and participation in activities of social nature.

The definite purpose of the club was to familiarize the members with certain branches of the home arts previously not stressed. One meeting was devoted to the combining and serving of salads, and resulted in an attractive display. At another meeting, the members made gifts and followed the work period with a party. Another gathering, divided into groups, made party plans for seasonal occasions and different events.

The club, in conjunction with the other two home economics clubs, enjoyed lectures on interior decorating, health, and dress. These lectures were given by guest speakers from town and were both entertaining and instructive.

Thus, by actual participation, or by contact with those whose knowledge along the line of home arts is extensive, the members of the club widened their own experience and came to look forward to the club periods.

The Library Board attempts the following aims: to interest its members in good books and literature, to add some useful token to the library, to help, when possible, students using the library, to promote among the library board members a spirit of good fellowship.

During club meetings, reports were made on the lives and personalities of various illustrators and publishers. A play, "Trouble on the Bookshelf," written and directed by a club member, gave a better knowledge of books in the High School Library.

Among the prominent social activities of the club were a St. Valentine's party, at which all members appeared in costume, and the annual picnic, held at the termination of the school year. Games were played at informal meetings. As its gift this year, the Board donated a set of new encyclopaedias and a three years' subscription to the "Literary Digest."

At Christmas, the club presented several teachers with little remembrances in the form of book marks designed by the club advisor and made by the members.

The Biology Club attempts to give those who are interested in Biology, and enjoy working with nature, a further study of Biology not possible in the classroom. Membership is open to all students interested in Biology. Programs were devoted to interesting talks and discussions, and putting collections in display form.

Mr. Tusil, a local commercial fisherman, talked at one meeting about some of his experiences during twenty-three years of fishing out of the Manitowoc port. After another club meeting had been dismissed, a group of students hiked along the lake shore to study bird life. One Sunday was devoted to a field trip which took up the major part of the day.

The surrounding territory provides excellent material for biological study at all times of the year. Lake Michigan gives a good opportunity for the study of waterfowl, fish, and seaweeds. During the warmer weather, the local birds are a source of great interest, especially when they return from the South. The green house and the aquarium contributed greatly to the interest of the club members. Both have been cared for by students.

Eight successful years of the Girls' Athletic Club have closed. When Miss Marion Rummele organized the G. A. C. Club in 1925, her purpose was to create a greater interest in girls' athletics.

At the close of the 1931-32 season, four girls had received the forty point numerals, and six girls the sixty point "M." Ada Bouril, who had the greatest number of points, won the silver cup. To retain membership in the club, the girls had to prove their interest by earning ten points during the first month. To obtain these points, a girl had to participate in the following activities for which she earned the specified number of points:

Health Chart—5 points
 Hiking—1 pt. for 5 miles
 Teams—1 pt. for every game
 Indoor Sports—1 pt. for 5 hours
 Outdoor Sports—1 pt. for 5 hours
 Referee or Umpire—1 pt. a game
 Timekeeper—1/2 pt. a game

Score—1/2 pt. a game
 Red Cross Lifesaver Test—5 pts.
 Advanced Swimming Test—3 pts.
 Beginner Swimmer Test—3 pts.
 Tournaments—1 pt. for entering
 First place 5 points
 Second place 3 points
 Third place 1 point.

The Nature Study Club is open to all students who profess an appreciation of nature. Means and ways in which to enjoy nature, as discovered by club members, constituted the theme of this year's programs.

To those who cannot afford to view nature's wonders by travel, reading offers a worthy substitute. The current magazines in the library are especially helpful to one who wishes to travel vicariously.

Again, the pride of collection and ownership is peculiar to Nature Study. One club member held the interest of his companions for a whole club period through his review of odd and curious clippings from his scrapbook.

An appreciation of nature was emphasized through nature songs, reports on hikes, accounts of bird hunts, topics on animals, and various tales about fish. The last program was a nature play, written by three members of the club and presented by a cast of nine members.

The subject of nature is an ever-changing one. Surely this study will always prove alluring and enticing. No other can so readily exemplify the proverb, "Variety is the spice of life."

Since the commercial department of Lincoln High attracts so many students it is only natural that the club established to help them along, should be popular. In fact, the large enrollment in the past few years has made it necessary to divide the club into a junior and a senior section.

By means of plays, discussions, and articles written by men and women prominent in the business world, the club members learn the fine points of business etiquette and get an opportunity to polish off their rough edges by worth while training.

Although the junior and senior divisions can be called two different clubs as they meet in different rooms and have individual officers, friendly relations are maintained and a get-together party is held just before Christmas.

Strangely enough, the senior division had only girls in it this year so several of the men in the plays, "Diogenes Looks for a Secretary" and "Applying for a Position"—put on as entertainment for the club programs—had long curly hair.

Have you ever longed to visit the old world or have you ever been curious to learn about ancient Rome? Then come with me on a trip via the Latin classics and the S. P. Q. R. club.

The first lap of our journey is full of hard work at mastering the fundamentals of the Latin language. As a reward for your stick-to-it-ive-ness, you will be admitted to the S. P. Q. R., our own memorial to that powerful S. P. Q. R. of antiquity, the invincible senate of Rome, with its bulk of knowledge and its great sweep of power.

The Argonauts will take us with them on their quest for the Golden Fleece. After our trip with Jason, that all-powered general, Julius Caesar, who became ruler of Rome, and even of the proud S. P. Q. R., will permit us to accompany him to Gaul. The wily Ariovistus will make us come to him for a pow-pow, and we will force him to his knees, after hard fighting on both sides. The end of weather fit for campaigning will force us to take leave of Caesar, this ever-conquering commander, in his winter camp.

Then we make our way to the Senate room. Crowds of people throng in with us, and then everyone is silent. Cicero, the famous orator; Cicero, the greatest of all lawyers, now stands before us. He begins his famous oration against Catiline, that plotter against Rome. The crowd becomes tense, then relaxed; Catiline becomes pale, then defiant, all because of the magic of the master's words.

Among the tales told in Virgil, the unfortunate love affair between Aeneas and Dido, the queen of Carthage, will fill our hearts with grief. The mysterious shapes and the gruesome cries of the underworld will freeze our blood, while we wait for Aeneas to get the last instructions from his father for the founding of Rome.

In adventures such as these, the S. P. Q. R. acts as guide. Illustrated lectures make more clear the environment and accomplishments of this ancient people, the Romans, and the short talks and bits of literature given will show that history does but repeat itself and our modern times are much like those of days gone by.

To create within its members an interest in the finer things of life has been, primarily, the purpose of the Senior Dramatic Club. To be truly cultured, a person must appreciate the finer arts and sciences. The club seeks to create an interest in drama, and encourages students to try their luck in the different forensic classes as well as in the class plays.

This year, the club endeavored to help students overcome self-consciousness and stage fright. Students appeared before the other members at regular club meetings and spoke on topics assigned.

Many students possess acting ability. The club aims to bring out and emphasize this talent. Poise or stage presence all students do not possess; however, these can, to a certain extent, be developed by proper training.

Several plays were acted. These served as programs for the entertainment of the club members and also gave valuable training to the students. This club, along with the class in dramatics, gave experience to students interested in trying out for class plays and increased their knowledge of dramatic art.

This year, owing to the large number of pupils who wished to become members of the Dramatic Club, it was necessary to divide the applicants into two groups, with the Seniors and Juniors in one and the Sophomores and Freshmen in the other. The lower class group had a membership of sixty. To produce actors and actresses was not the goal of this club. Rather, experience and a general knowledge of dramatics were sought. To this end, pantomime, the foundation of successful drama, one-act plays, readings and various other skits were presented by members of the organization. At one meeting, held with the Physics club, motion pictures were shown. All members were required to take an active interest in the work of the club. If, by chance, someone failed to do this, automatically he was no longer a member. Happily, little trouble was experienced along this line. Indeed, members showed, for the most part, a friendly spirit of cooperation with the program committee. As there is no opportunity for Sophomores and Freshmen to show their dramatic talent in class plays, the value of the training received in this club will not immediately show. However, in a few years, Mr. Novitski's work should bear ample fruit.

France, the land of romance, offers us a truly delightful and romantic language. For, what else could one call the speech of the truly smart Parisian, or the equally interesting, if not more picturesque, vernacular of the native of Brittany. A knowledge of French, the coming language of the elite, helps the traveler who views France.

The French club gives students an opportunity to study French Art, Literature, and Music. Gala initiations and many pleasantries are enjoyed at the different meetings. The customs, habits, and life of the French people are closely studied. Alsace, territory sought by both France and Germany, is a section particularly interesting.

The club often enjoyed the singing of modern French songs. Miss Rathbun, who traveled in France last summer, and spent some time studying the French language as it is spoken by the natives, made the club meetings live and interesting with accounts of her French trip.

The Tennis Club was organized in 1925 to further promote interest in high school tennis. Through the efforts of Mr. Ludwig and the enthusiasm for the sport, the tennis club has come rapidly to the front in both size and popularity. This year marked a change in qualifications for membership. Mr. Ludwig found it necessary to cut the size of the club, and to include only those he thought displayed the most interest and had the best tennis ability.

Each year, in the spring, a local tournament is held to determine the finest singles player. This year the spring tournament was open to all boys of the high school, except those who had won letter awards in tennis.

During the club periods, different students related instances in the match play of champions, told how they attained their ranks, their types of attack, and the qualities acquired by their steady participation in the sport. Qualities emphasized in the talks were: courtesy, clean sportsmanship, and fair play.

The Hi-Y Club is a junior branch of the Y. M. C. A. Its primary purpose is to promote a high standard of scholarship and clean sportsmanship and to keep in mind, at all times, its slogan—"Clean living, clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship."

Initiation is held shortly after the new members are voted in. Then, in the dark of the gym, brightened only by a few flickering candles, the new members are taken into the organization with all the force the old members can muster.

Membership in the club is limited to twenty-five boys, selected from the junior and senior classes by the members retained from the year before. The junior members of one year thus become the senior members the following year. The club ends its yearly activities with a banquet at some hall in the immediate vicinity. Accordingly, few Hi-Y members attend school the following day.

As in former years, the club sponsored a bonfire and pep meeting in fall before the Sheboygan game.

The Quill Club, one of the younger clubs at Lincoln, was founded three years ago by a group of students interested in writing stories and composing verse.

But, peep in at one of our meetings. Perhaps we'll be learning the different methods to attack the plot, or absorbing the secrets of introspection. We might be perusing current magazines and joyously noting discrepancies in the stories. More likely, however, we'll be admiring the "finished" way in which a story is written and sighing inwardly—or audibly—that our small attempts seem so hopeless.

At another meeting, we'll undoubtedly be reading our "masterpieces" to a critical audience. As soon as the enterprising young author resumes his seat, a lively discussion ensues. But, here comes the "Manitou!" What fun it is to have it the object of our criticism. And, bear in mind the full dictionary definition of criticism.

To the ordinary onlooker, this club seems but a continuation of tiresome English composition. But to those who belong, it is merely an extension of the hobby—writing.

MIXED CHORUS

Instead of saying that the Mixed Chorus started with a "bang", shall we say a chord? This organization is practically new, as it started just last year, but, even so, it has flourished. The chorus meets on Tuesdays and Fridays during the homeroom periods, but even in this limited time, it has improved rapidly in the quality of tone.

The group as a whole has appeared at four concerts; one at the Two Rivers High School, for the students there; two in our own auditorium—a public concert in fall and a pre-tournament concert in spring; and one especially for the students.

As a finale for the fall concert, the chorus sang one especially arranged number in conjunction with the band. The students in the chorus, as given on the above picture are as follows:

Row 4—Mollie Endries, Charlotte Nelles, Vivien Koutnik, Pearl Neuser, Irene Thomas, Lolita Tills, Glenna Seeman, Priscilla Moore, Genevieve Clark, Anita Hansen, Margaret Williamson, Priscilla Pank, Selma Berg, Ruth Treick, Kathryn Norris, Kathryn Jageman, Elaine Bugenhagen, Margaret Fishbeck, Grace Plantico, Marion Frieder, Jeanette Herman, Elizabeth Holsen.

Row 2—Winifred Staddler, Ethel Mae Waak, Lorraine Krause, Mercedes Behrendt, Jeanette Johnson, Marion Thompson, Doris Kurth, Miss Fritschler, director, Miss Haight, accompanist, Jeanette Kurth, June-Marie Houston, Avrilla Hoffman, Janis Potratz, Helen Frieder, Marian Houghton, Marion Toebe.

ORCHESTRA

The Orchestra has been organized as a service group rather than one for pleasure or credit. It offers an opportunity for those who play stringed instruments to perform in a musical organization. The orchestra plays when music is needed and regular band music is not suitable. This year, the Orchestra furnished the music for both the Senior and Junior Class Plays. Many stringed instrument players in school are interested in orchestral work. For this reason, Mr. Boyd plans to build up and enlarge the group, even to an Orchestra of symphonic size.

The instrumentation follows:

Strings: Ardis Albano, Kathryn Barnstein, Margaret Birkholz, Jerry Brennan, Rodney Nowakowski, Richard Posvic, Lester Quistorf, Ralph Rhode, Ellis Clayton, Inez Dorsch, Milton Kaufman, Roy Newlin, Charles Sindelar, Marvin Schmelze, George Willott.

Woodwinds: Marion Fox, Russel Kirchner, Earl Krie, Elwood Krueger, John Svacina.

Brass: Ernest Barger, Harry Beck, June-Marie Houston, Edward Sladky, Lucille Wellhoefer.

Percussion: Earl Peronto, James Schneider.

Students in the above picture are as follows: Row 2—George Willott, Edward Sladky, McDonald Wood, John Svacina, Elwood Krieger, Earl Kreie, Mr. Boyd, Director, Ernest Barger, Harry Beck, Russell Kirchner, Marion Fox, Lucille Wellhoefer, June-Marie Houston, Ellis Clayton, James Schneider, Earl Peronto.

BAND ACTIVITIES

MR. BOYD,
Director of Music

An ever increasingly popular activity at the high school is the band work. There are two bands at the present time. In the second band the student has an opportunity to ground himself in the rudiments of music, to show his skill, and prove he can play the high class of music which those in the Senior band play.

Changing off with the first, the second band played for the last football game and several basketball games, besides appearing in programs for the Band Mothers' Club.

The red letter event of the first band's calendar was the state tournament at Madison in which the band as a unit entered not only in class "A," but in the sight reading contest.

Although only the first band went to the state tournament the two bands acted as hosts to the District Tournament held April 29 in Manitowoc. Bands from all parts of northeastern Wisconsin came to participate in sight reading, concert, solo, and ensemble contests. It is the first time Manitowoc has had the honor of being hosts to any tournament or large group of musicians.

In order to pay for the trip to Madison and other expenses incurred during the year, the band gave two major concerts in which the members had a chance to display the progress they had made as well as raise the necessary funds. The first major concert was given December first in combination with the chorus. The second concert, also in combination with the chorus, was a pre-tournament concert given March 31.

The instrumentation now almost complete of the first band follows:

Clarinets: William Weise, Harley Metzger, Earl Kreie, Richard Schmitz, Frederick Clark, George Evanson, Lincoln Kliment, Charles Youngchild, Margaret Fishbeck, Constance Weber, Berle Hrabik, Richard Engle, Russel Novak.

Cornets: Edward Sladky, Holman King, MacDonald Wood, Paul Koritzinsky, Michael Gaspadarek.

Trumpets: Virginia Steckmesser, Karl Kluth, Allan DeFaut.

Flutes: Marian Fox, Inez Dorsch.

Oboe: John Svacina.

Bassoons: Russel Kirchner, Norman Kubsch.

Saxaphones: Robert Borchardt, Paul Schmitz, Kenneth Leist, William Daeke.

BAND ACTIVITIES

Bass Clarinet: Dale Panosh; Alto Clarinet: Donald Dill; French Horn: June-Marie Houston, Lucille Wellhoefer, Doris Wellhoefer, Harold Lindemann, Elroy Stueck, Joseph Cigler; Baritones: Harlan Wehrwein, Victor Bohachek; Trombones: Harry Beck, Donald Groll, Jack Stack, Leroy Ulrick, Albert Schwantes, Carl Geisler; Basses: Ellis Clayton, Joseph Shimon, Charles Sindelar, Dave Novak; Drums and Tympany: James Scheider, Earl Peronto, Eugene Gerbinsky, Francis Zeckel.

The first band played for assemblies, football games, pep meetings, the Vocational school opening, County Teachers' Convention, at Two Rivers etc.

The instrumentation of the Junior Band follows:

Clarinets: Norman Brusek, Joseph Hurka, Elton Jelinek, Howard Kuecker, Arthur Kuehnl, Ruth Maresh, Marion Miller, Wilmer Schroeder, Edwin Shimon, Lester Tepley, Oliver Tollefson; Trumpets: Norbert Derus, Robert Hrudka, Edward Hudon, Russell Krueger, Vernon Wernecke; Cornet: Edwin Hansen, Arno Hiller, Leonard Woytal; Saxophone: Victor Bauman, Ruben Glihsman, Eugene Krejcarek, Albina Peck, Evelyn Peck; Trombone: Ernest Barger, Emmett Klessig; Baritone: Ernest Barger; Euphonium: Howard Kraemer; Drums: John Engel, Anthony Gospodarek, Lester Mittnacht, Richard Staddler; Oboe: Richard Posvic, Otto Stokes; Sousaphone (Bass): Elroy Nass, David Novak; Bassoon: Norbert Kustka; French Horn: Harold Lindemann.

The members of the band greatly appreciate the splendid support and interest of the Band Mothers, and feel that it is through their efforts that the various band activities were made possible this year.

SWIMMING TEAM

This year, Manitowoc's swimming team did not make a very brilliant showing, but won two out of six meets. However, considering the stiff competition, the tanksters did not do so badly. Sheboygan and Two Rivers have always had good teams. In addition to these two teams, this year the red and white swimmers encountered the Milwaukee University High School team.

Adaptness in swimming, more than in any other scholastic sport, requires experience rather than ability, for swimming is an art which takes several years to develop.

This season's most outstanding men were: Robichaud, Schroeder, Zeckel, and Randolph. Robichaud and Schroeder specialized in the free style, Zeckel in the breast stroke, and Randolph in the back stroke.

Eight of the men were awarded letters this season. They were: Robichaud, Zeckel, Randolph, Schroeder, Notz, Paulus, Geisler, and Kinzel. Of these, Randolph, Notz, and Kinzel will be returning next year.

Bob Randolph and Kenneth Notz were elected co-captains of the 1934 swimming team Tuesday, March 14. Each boy received nine of the eighteen votes cast. Randolph is the Manty backstroke ace and received awards for swimming in his sophomore year also. Notz swam in the fifty yard free style event and in the two hundred yard relay.

 Row 1—Henry Kinzel, Francis Zeckel, Carl Geisler, Leonard Robichaud, Robert Randolph, Kenneth Notz, Cyril Miller, Robert Fargo.

Although the football season was not successful in the number of games won, the boys displayed a good brand of football in every game played but lacked the power to score when in scoring position. Out of nine games played, the team won two and tied two.

The letter men returning will serve as a fine nucleus for the candidates who are coming up from the second team. Letter winners this year were: Frederick Baugniet, Harry Kelley, John Kraemer, Gordon Langenkamp, Charles Reddin, Leonard Robichaud, Joe Simon, Eugene Stiefvater, Robert Teitgen, Carl Wernecke, George Willott, Joseph Ward, Edward Martin, Francis Zeckel, Frank Bonk, William Schuette, Robert Stiefvater, Edward Ulovitz, Harry Wilda, Raymond Nichols, Cyril Miller, Victor Fidler. Out of these, the first fourteen named are Seniors and will be gone next year. The others will be returning to make their bids for regular positions on the team. Many of the players performed creditably and should prove valuable additions to the team.

STURGEON BAY

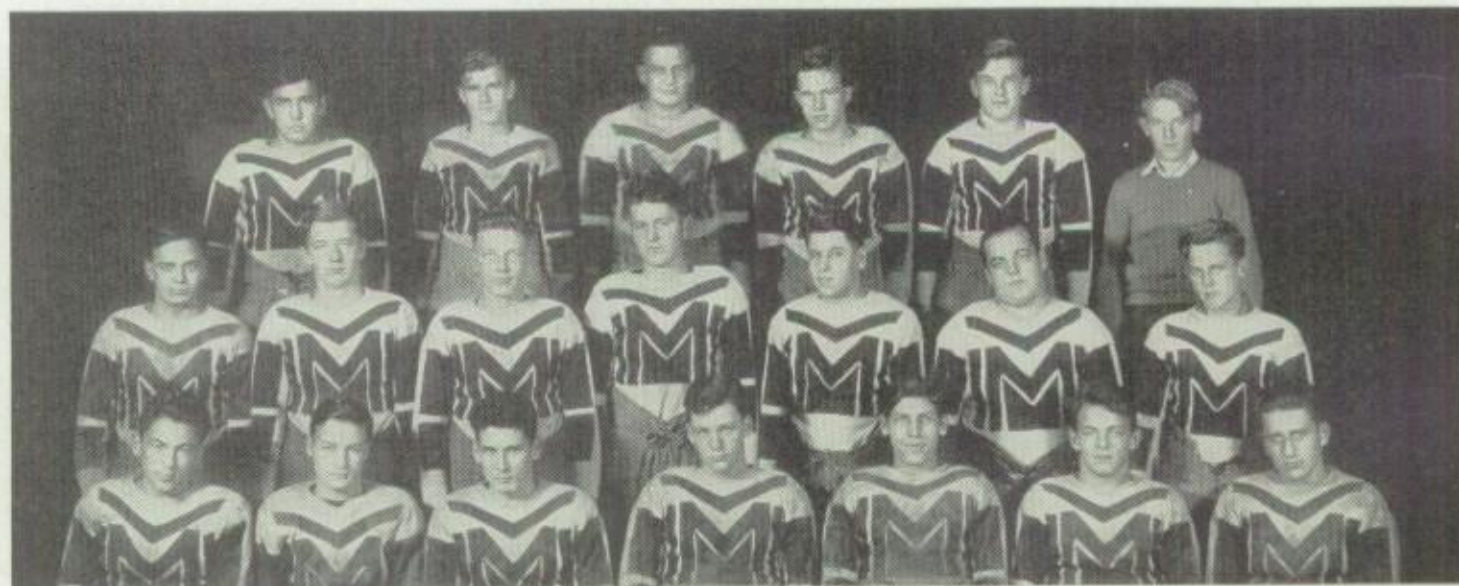

Manitowoc opened their season with a win over Sturgeon Bay, a non-conference foe. Captain Langenkamp was the star of the game, scoring both touchdowns, after having played a good game at end the first three periods.

OSHKOSH

The team journeyed to meet one of the favorites of the conference. After playing sluggish ball the first half, the team went back to tie the score on a pass from Martin to Ulovitz. The game ended with Manitowoc holding the ball on Oshkosh's five yard line.

FOND DU LAC

Fond du Lac visited here and went home with a victory. Although they they were one of the strongest teams in the conference, we held them to a smaller score than their other opponents did.

FIRST TEAM

Row 3—Frederick Baugniet, John Kraemer, Robert Stiefvater, Edward Martin, Roland Heinz, Milton Schroeder.

MARINETTE

Manitowoc won their first conference game on touchdowns by Joe Simon and "Gordy" Langenkamp. The score could have been much larger but the team suffered penalties when in scoring distance.

EAST GREEN BAY

As Manitowoc's first team wasn't clicking, Coach Winder put in the second team, the pride of their coach, Mr. Lindwall. The second team played a nice game when you consider the fact that most of them were Sophomores.

WEST GREEN BAY

The "Ships" not only held the conference champions to a 6 to 0 score, but they outplayed them at most parts of the game. It was a fluke pass that netted West their touchdown.

TWO RIVERS

The team went to the neighboring city of Two Rivers, to play their ancient rivals, the Ships. Two Rivers put up a stubborn fight, with the result that, although Manty made 21 first downs to the 4 made by Two Rivers, the final score was 7 to 7.

SHEBOYGAN

Sheboygan, our ancient rivals from the South, came here with a pass attack that sucked in our backfield men, allowing a Sheboygan man to sneak behind them and catch the pass. Even with this attack, the score was only 13 to 0.

SECOND TEAM FOOTBALL

Lincoln High's second team, under the leadership of Mr. Lindwall, enjoyed a successful season, winning 3 games and losing one. The Two Rivers reserves were no match for our seconds and were vanquished twice, while Sheboygan received and inflicted a defeat.

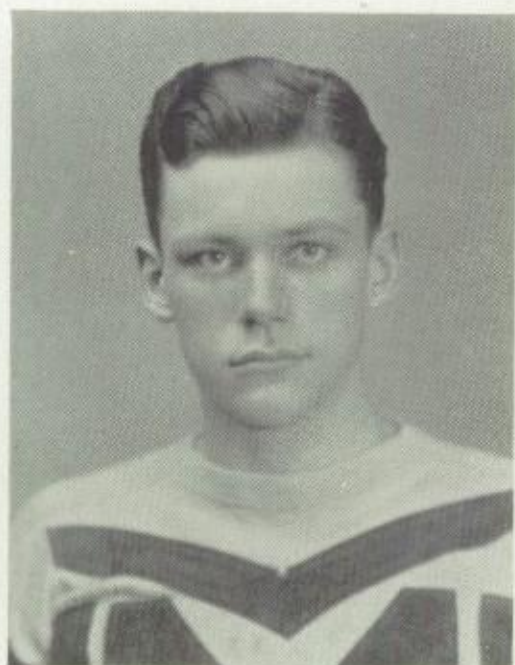

A few of the players showed special improvement and, as a result, Bonk, Fidler, Miller, and Wilda were awarded varsity letters. The team, consisting mostly of Sophomores and Juniors, will give coach Winder several promising candidates for the varsity next year.

1932-1933 BASKETBALL

Lincoln High has regained its prestige as a basketball threat in the Fox River Valley Conference. Although in the past three seasons its quintets compiled quite favorable records against competition, this year's team went a step farther, and through a very hard-fought schedule, established itself as co-champions of the league, along with Appleton.

In doing so, Coach Rex K. John's aggregation emerged victorious in nine of its ten conference encounters. The lone loss was suffered at the hands of Oshkosh to the tune of 17 to 16. Besides equaling the standing made by any Valley champion since 1921, this year's record marks the first time a Manitowoc team has won the championship since 1927, when our representatives that year were undisputed leaders.

At the beginning of the season, the outlook was, as Mr. John put it, favorable. Practice, which was attended by eight members of last year's team, began immediately after the conclusion of football activities.

A sixteen game schedule was planned, ten against conference teams and one with Kiel, Valders, Alumni, Vocational School, and two with Two Rivers. Later a return contest was arranged with the Vocational team.

A summary of the games follows:

MANITOWOC 22; VALDERS 7

On December 2, the first game was played in our gym. Valders furnished the invading lineup and, as they were well up in their league, were looked upon as formidable opposition. Nevertheless, they were repulsed by the score of 22-7 in a game in which all of the members on the squad saw action.

VOCATIONAL 17; MANITOWOC 16

December ninth, the Vocational School gymnasium was the setting for the first of the team's few setbacks. Handicap, in the form of shorter training period and the loss of Eddie Ulovitz because of a leg injury, was too great to overcome. After a great rally by our team near the close of the game, Seniors of the Vocational Team made a spectacular field goal to offset the two brilliant baskets Ralph Kohls had caged just previously.

BASKETBALL

MANITOWOC 15; OSHKOSH 14

Manitowoc's first Valley competition was now to be faced. We were hosts to Oshkosh on December 16th. Although without Ulovitz's services most of the game, the boys outscored the Sawdusters the first half 8 to 6, but lost one point of their margin in the last half, the game ending 15 to 14. Langenkamp made seven points to head the locals.

MANITOWOC 33; TWO RIVERS 20

Our old rivals, Two Rivers, were entertained in our gymnasium on the evening of January 10. The fact is they were trounced, 33 to 20. The only time they led was at the very beginning, when Barsul made two one-hand shots in succession. Although trailing, the intense rivalry kept the Purgolds from submitting to defeat until the final gun had sounded. Ulovitz led our attack with a barrage of four goals and two free throws.

MANITOWOC 14; FOND DU LAC 9

January third we again ran up against a Valley foe. In a game at Fond-du Lac, our team was successful, the score being 14 to 9. The perfect balance of the team was clearly indicated in this game, every man having scored from the floor, and Kraemer, high point man, having made four points.

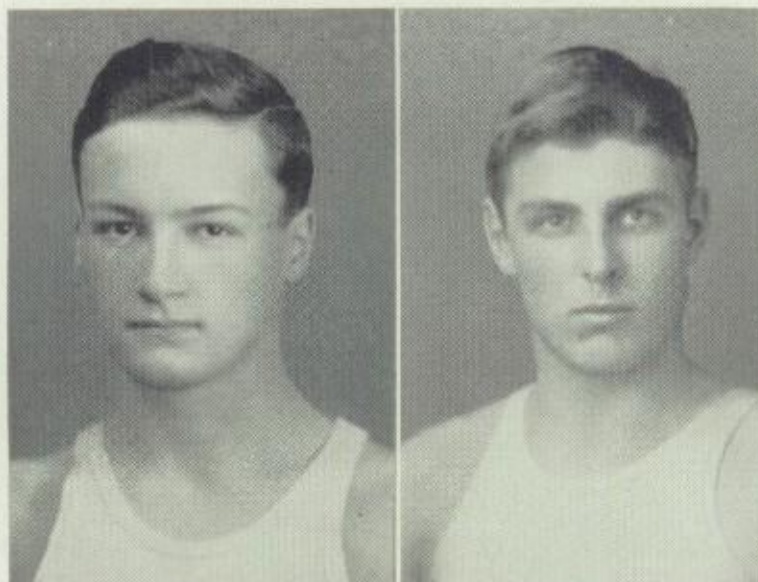

MANITOWOC 16; SHEBOYGAN 11

Our third league victory was accomplished at the expense of Sheboygan in their gym on the evening of January 20. It was a rough game throughout; both Schuette and Langenkamp were lost by means of the four-foul rule during the third quarter. We were outscored by the Chairs the second half 7 to 6, but the six-point margin piled up by the regulars in the first half was sufficient to win the game, 16 to 11.

MANITOWOC 31; MARINETTE 14

The Red-White wave swept Marinette and completely demolished any hopes the northerners may have had toward placing in the upper bracket. Although they managed to hold the championship-bound Manitowoc team to a lead of two points the first half, the second half resulted in a scoring spree in which Marinette was out-scored 20 to 5.

*Co-Captains,
First Basketball Team.*
BILLY SCHUETTE RALPH KOHLS

BASKETBALL

MANITOWOC 16; EAST GREEN BAY 13

East Green Bay came into town confidently expecting to turn back our Red-White warriors. In a close game, whatever hopes Green Bay may have entertained toward providing us with our first setback were dispelled.

MANITOWOC 31; MARINETTE 18

Marinette again proved to be a first half jinx to the Ships. However, they came back the second half to score twenty points, Ulovitz alone accounting for 12 points.

TWO RIVERS 14; MANITOWOC 7

This game resulted in a direct reversal of form from the game these two teams played at Manitowoc. It was a slow, uneventful game, the score at the half being 6 to 3.

OSHKOSH 17; MANITOWOC 16

This game marked our only conference defeat of the campaign. After being held scoreless during the third period, our team came back in the last quarter to tie the score at 16 to 16. On a very questionable play, Oshkosh received a free throw and made it to win the game.

MANITOWOC 17; FOND DU LAC 14

Manitowoc again returned to the favorable side of the score in a nip-and-tuck battle that was not decided until the close of the game. Fond du Lac gained five points during the last quarter and were always dangerous. Kraemer led with ten points.

Row 2—Eugene Handl, manager; Robert Rand, Joseph Tomcheck, Gordon Langenkamp, Harry Kelley, Tim Egan; Mr. John, Coach.

Row 1—Alex Derus, Victor Fidler, Edward Ulovitz, Bill Schuette, Ralph Kohls, John Kraemer, Oscar Johnsrud.

BASKETBALL

MANITOWOC 20; EAST GREEN BAY 16

We now had to oppose a team justly called the most dangerous team in the conference. On successive weeks they had trimmed Appleton and Oshkosh. A nine point rally in the third quarter provided a margin that proved to be enough to win.

MANITOWOC 27; SHEBOYGAN 6

The score of 6 points was the lowest scored by a team in a conference game this year. Of these, one was made in each of the first three quarters, and the second team counted for 3 points in the final quarter.

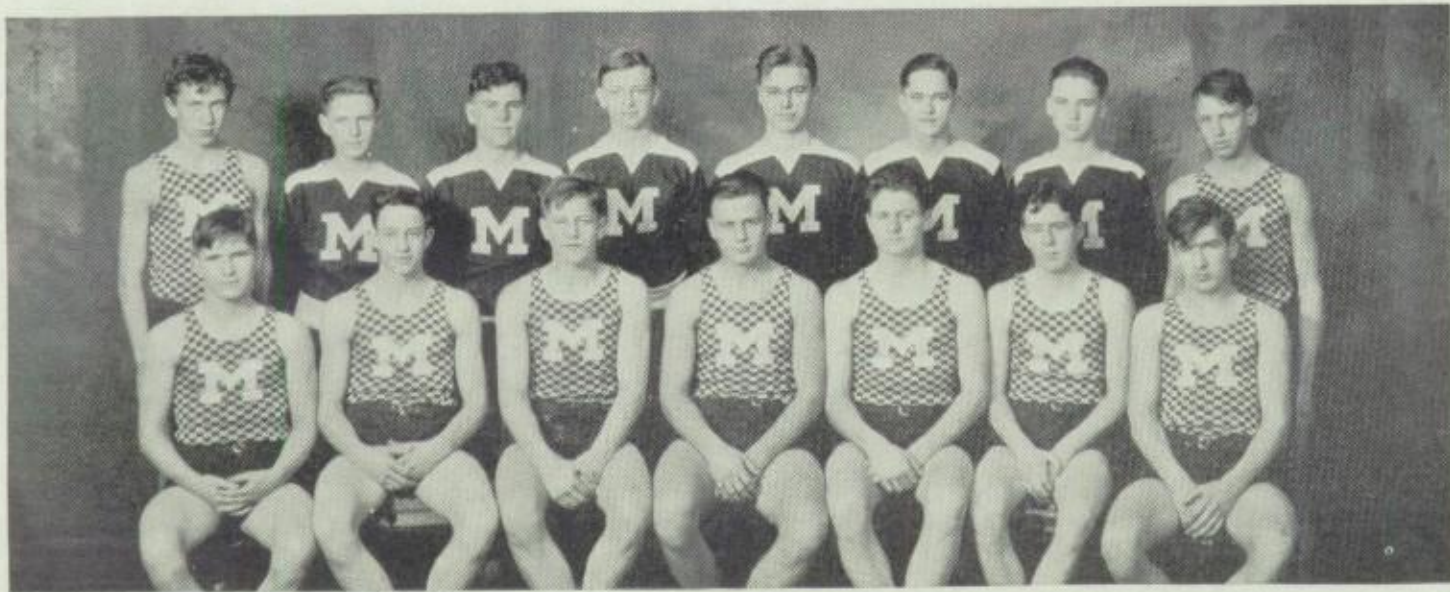

This game marked the close of the high school basketball careers of Co-captain Ralph Kohls, John Kraemer, Gordon Langenkamp, Joe Tomchek, Robert Rand, and Harry Kelley, all letter men. Letter men who will form the nucleus of next year's squad are co-captain Schuette, captain-elect Ulovitz, and Oscar Johnsrud.

TRACK

GEORGE WILLOTT
Track Captain

With only five letter-men returning, the prospects for a successful track season were not so lustrous. However, under the tutelage of Mr. Lindwall and Mr. Winder the aspirants developed in their events to creditable form. The weather was against the boys during the early spring season and, coupled with Mr. Lindwall's absence due to quarantine, made things rather tough.

The rays of sunshine on the team were Captain Willott, 220-yard hurdle man, Gordon Langenkamp, discuss and shotput ace; and Howard Kraemer, a "find" in the 440, from Fond du Lac.

During Mr. Lindwall's absence, the services of Harvey Lenz were enlisted and training progressed as scheduled. Lincoln defeated the Alumni in the first track meet of the season April 25, in the lower bowl. The Alumni won only four first places, while the high school athletes picked up nine firsts. Good time in the runs, considering the early season, was made and Gordon Langenkamp broke the old school record of 114 feet, set by himself last year, by tossing the discuss 116 feet.

Saturday, May 1, the Lincoln track team dropped the first conference meet to Port Washington. Buivid, the "one-man track team" from the Port, took three firsts, one in the shutput, one in the discuss and one in the jump. He took a third in the high jump and ran anchor man on the half-mile relay team. Manitowoc made a final sweep in the mile, taking the first three places. The final score was 61-47.

Manitowoc landed on the short end of a triangular meet with East and West Green Bay May 6 on the home cinders. The scores were: West 58, East 43, and Manty 33. Van Caster of West was high point man of the meet.

Oshkosh and West Green Bay shared the honors at the Fox River Valley Relay Carnival held at Lincoln Field Saturday, May 13. Oshkosh won three out of the four relays to win that section, and West was strong enough to take plenty of firsts and seconds in the special events to share the honors. Johnson, a flashy young sophomore from West, broke the 100-yard dash record and the high hurdle records. Manitowoc's team did not fare so well, totalling only thirteen points.

The following men were expected to receive awards: Fred Grapentine, George Willott, Francis Zeckel, Gordon Langenkamp, Joe Simon, Phillip Pollen, Eugene Stiefvater, Harold Barbeau, Raymond Barbeau, Joe Buchner, Victor Ceaglske, Richard Ellig, Robert Teitgen, and Charles Wagner.

TENNIS

JOHN KOEHLER, *Captain
Tennis Team*

To Mr. Ludwig goes the full praise of putting Manitowoc on the map as a tennis city. For the last four years his teams have placed high in both the state and conference meets. Last year at the state meet, Spindler and Captain Ferguson took third place in doubles and Bob Borchardt, a sophomore, took fourth place in singles. At the conference meet, Ferguson placed second and Spindler took third in singles. In doubles, captain-elect Koehler and Borchardt took second place. All in all the season was very successful. Six duel meets were won and two lost.

Now these championship combinations have graduated and Mr. Ludwig has to develop and train new players to represent Manitowoc. But the development is already underway with the nucleus of the team being built around Captain John Koehler and Bob Borchardt.

There may be some misunderstanding about the scoring of meets in tennis. Each match won counts one for the winning team. There are seven matches to a meet, five singles and two doubles. If more are played they do not officially count. So, if any team wins four matches, the final score will be 4-3.

The requirements for a letter usually call for at least victories in half of the meets the team plays. This rule is somewhat flexible, according to the circumstances involved.

Because of the poor condition of Manitowoc's clay courts so early in the season, the first few meets are scheduled away from home. This year the team traveled to Oshkosh for its first game, only to lose a heart-breaker by a 4-3 count.

Captain John Koehler won his singles match against Sorenson of Oshkosh in the first two sets 7-5 and 6-3. Borchardt, rated as number one man for the Oshkosh meet, won the first set of his match 7-5, but Pipkorn, the Oshkosh star, brought home the bacon, by winning the next two sets 6-3 and 6-4. Zimmer was "taken for a ride" by Koplitz, of Oshkosh, who won the first set 6-0 and also the second set 7-5. Ferguson, rated as number four man for Manitowoc, after winning the first set 6-4, lost the next two sets 2-6 and 4-6, respectively to Arndt of Oshkosh. Cummings, a promising sophomore, lost the first set 7-9 after a hard-fought battle, but won the next two sets 6-3 and 8-6 respectively.

Borchardt and Ferguson, in retaliation for having been beaten in their singles matches, beat Arndt and Sorenson in the second and third sets 8-6 and 6-4 respectively, after having lost the first set 4-6.

The team avenged the Oshkosh defeat the following week with a victory over Appleton by a score of 6-1. As the Appleton courts were too wet, the two teams drove to Menasha, then to Neenah to find dry enough courts.

TENNIS

Manitowoc netters won four of the five singles matches and both of the doubles matches. Appleton's only victory was scored by Lueck.

The Manitowoc singles victories were scored as follows: Koehler beat Hanch, 6-4, 6-2; Borchardt beat Remele, 6-2, 6-3; Cummings beat Catlin, 7-5, 12-10; Miles beat Morrow, 6-2, 8-6.

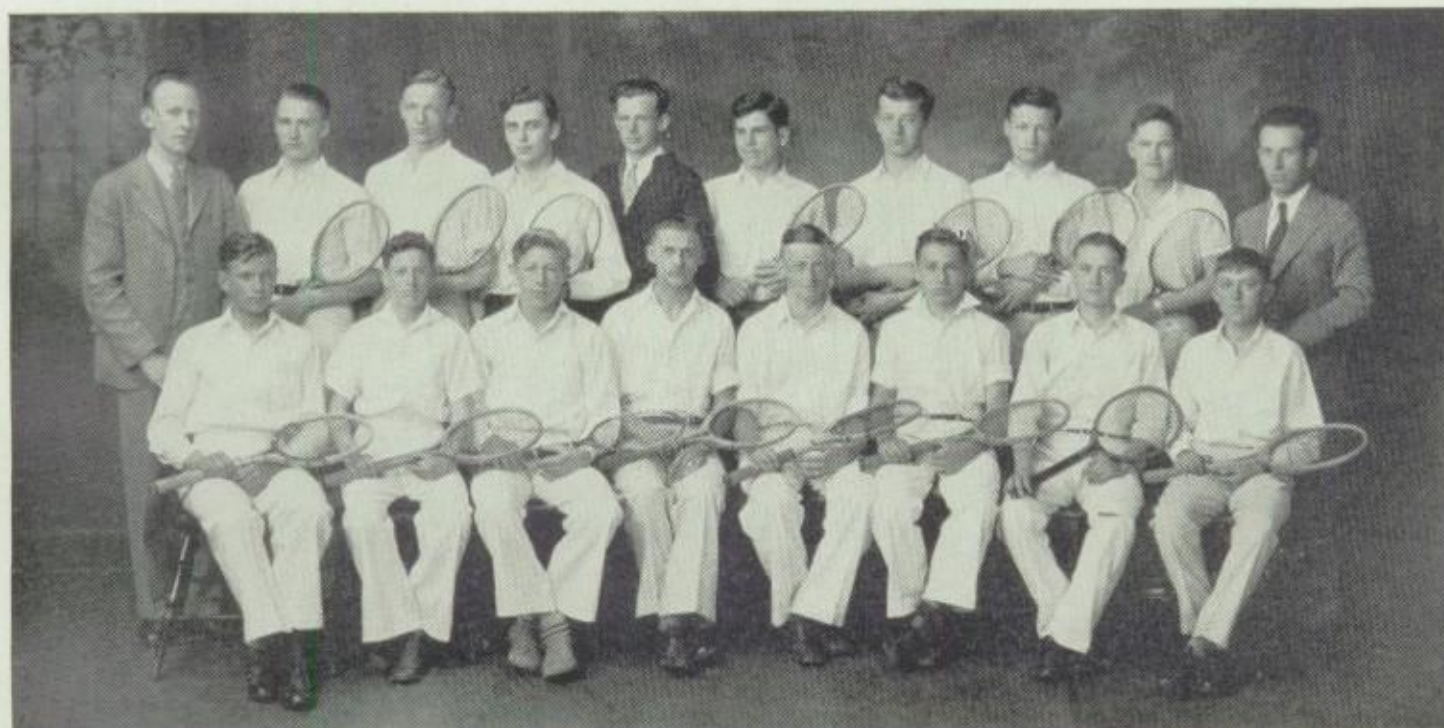

Manitowoc journeyed to East Green Bay, Wednesday, May 10th, to play a duel meet with East High. The weather was ideal for it was warm, and the temperature was kept moderate by a few clouds. Captain Koehler lost a hard-played match and the second doubles team, Ferguson and Zimmer, did likewise. These two matches were the only defeats against Manitowoc the final score being 5-2. Coach Ludwig took ten men along so as to give more an opportunity to play against other competition. The score 5-2 goes down as the exact score in the conference score book, but according to the matches played the final score was 9-3 in favor of Manitowoc.

FEATURES

The court jester here makes a hasty exit, but will be back again provoking and making fool's play for the amusement of his master. No mediaeval court was complete without the jester; he was a privileged character and was forgiven offenses which would have cost any other man his life.

GRACE LOEFFLER
Prom Queen

The Junior Prom, the biggest social event of the year, was scheduled for June Ninth this year, and Wally Beau's orchestra was booked for the evening.

Philip Miles, Junior class president, automatically became Prom King, and chose Grace Loeffler Prom Queen. Upon these two popular Juniors fell the honor of leading the Grand March.

Following no definite theme, as in other years, in order to lower expenses, the prom decorations featured a black starry sky overhead, a crystal ball chandelier, and drapings of violet and silver (the Senior colors) on the sides.

CALENDAR

SEPTEMBER

Tuesday-6—Less greenness this year. Smallest Freshmen class enrolled.

Wednesday-14—"There's music in the air." Band plays first concert.

Friday-23—Inez Dorsch struts her stuff and is chosen straight drum major. Arnold Gass with his fancy twirls becomes twirling strut major.

Friday-30—Seniors choose folders.

OCTOBER

Monday-3—First firedrill. Keep to the right!

Wednesday-5—Phil Miles, prom king, shows early weakness toward Gracie.

Wednesday-5—"Going - going - gone!" How much am I bid? Lost and Found Department has hall auction.

Thursday-20—"Chet" Sadusky concentrates long enough to thread a needle at the history club initiation.

NOVEMBER

Tuesday-1—Under fear of tardy room sentence, students houseclean their lockers.

Wednesday-2—Everybody smile and look pretty! Watch the birdie! Mr. Glander takes "Flambeau" pictures!

CALENDAR

Monday-7—Oh that Ramos family! Dark eyed senioritas break hearts of senior boys, Carl Backus's heart in particular. Ramon, too, is appealing with his Spanish accent, and bright costume.

Wednesday-9—Sir Philip Martindale tells of one Gertie, the big black bear, and her adventures in Yellowstone Park.

DECEMBER

Wednesday-14—Band and chorus take afternoon holiday for trip to Two Rivers.

Friday-23—School closes for full two-week vacation.

Saturday-24—Last-minute shopping.

JANUARY

Sunday-1—That's queer. We feel just like we did yesterday—or do we?

Friday-27—Semester ends — in glory and in shame!

Friday-27—Two Rivers proves adage, "If you give a man enough water, he'll swim." Tanksters beat our polar bears 34-21.

FEBRUARY

Wednesday-1—Teachers put off cloaks of decorum to be kids again. Mr. Boyd "flirts" disgracefully the whole evening. Mr. Burke wears bow tie and shows his ankles.

CALENDAR

Friday-3—What a family—"That Ferguson one."

Thursday-9—Hot soup and crackers served to those who brave weather 25 below normal. Four hundred thirty-five students find beds more warm and comfy than wintry gales of great outdoors.

Tuesday-14—Why so many shy looks on the masculine faces? Can they perchance have received tokens of love?

Wednesday-22—Phil Miles confirms early weakness for blondes. Chooses Gracie as Prom Queen.

Tuesday-28—Can take it! Can take what? Any way, boys organize new club.

MARCH

Friday-10—Jigsaw fever spreads rapidly.

Saturday-11—Track men burn up the cinders—75 strong.

Monday-13—Miss Webb trains dog menagerie.

Friday-17—Irish bloom forth in green and orange. New girls' club clashes in burple while members burp—burp.

Thursday-30—Ross Wright makes hit with his zylophone. Some big-top performers that Schultze troop!

APRIL

Saturday-1—No School! April fool—its Saturday.

CALENDAR

Friday-7—A real Easter Vacation—time to color eggs and hunt rabbits' nests.

Saturday-29—"It never rains, but it pours!" Band tournament performers get shower of blessing as they parade down the main drag.

MAY

Friday-5—Junior class puts on scandalous performance. Robert Stiefvater in green pajamas! My word, what is this world coming to?

Sunday-14—The best day, ever. "For mother living, a flower bright; for mother dead, a flower white."

Friday-26—"Manitou" breathes spirit of Spring.

JUNE

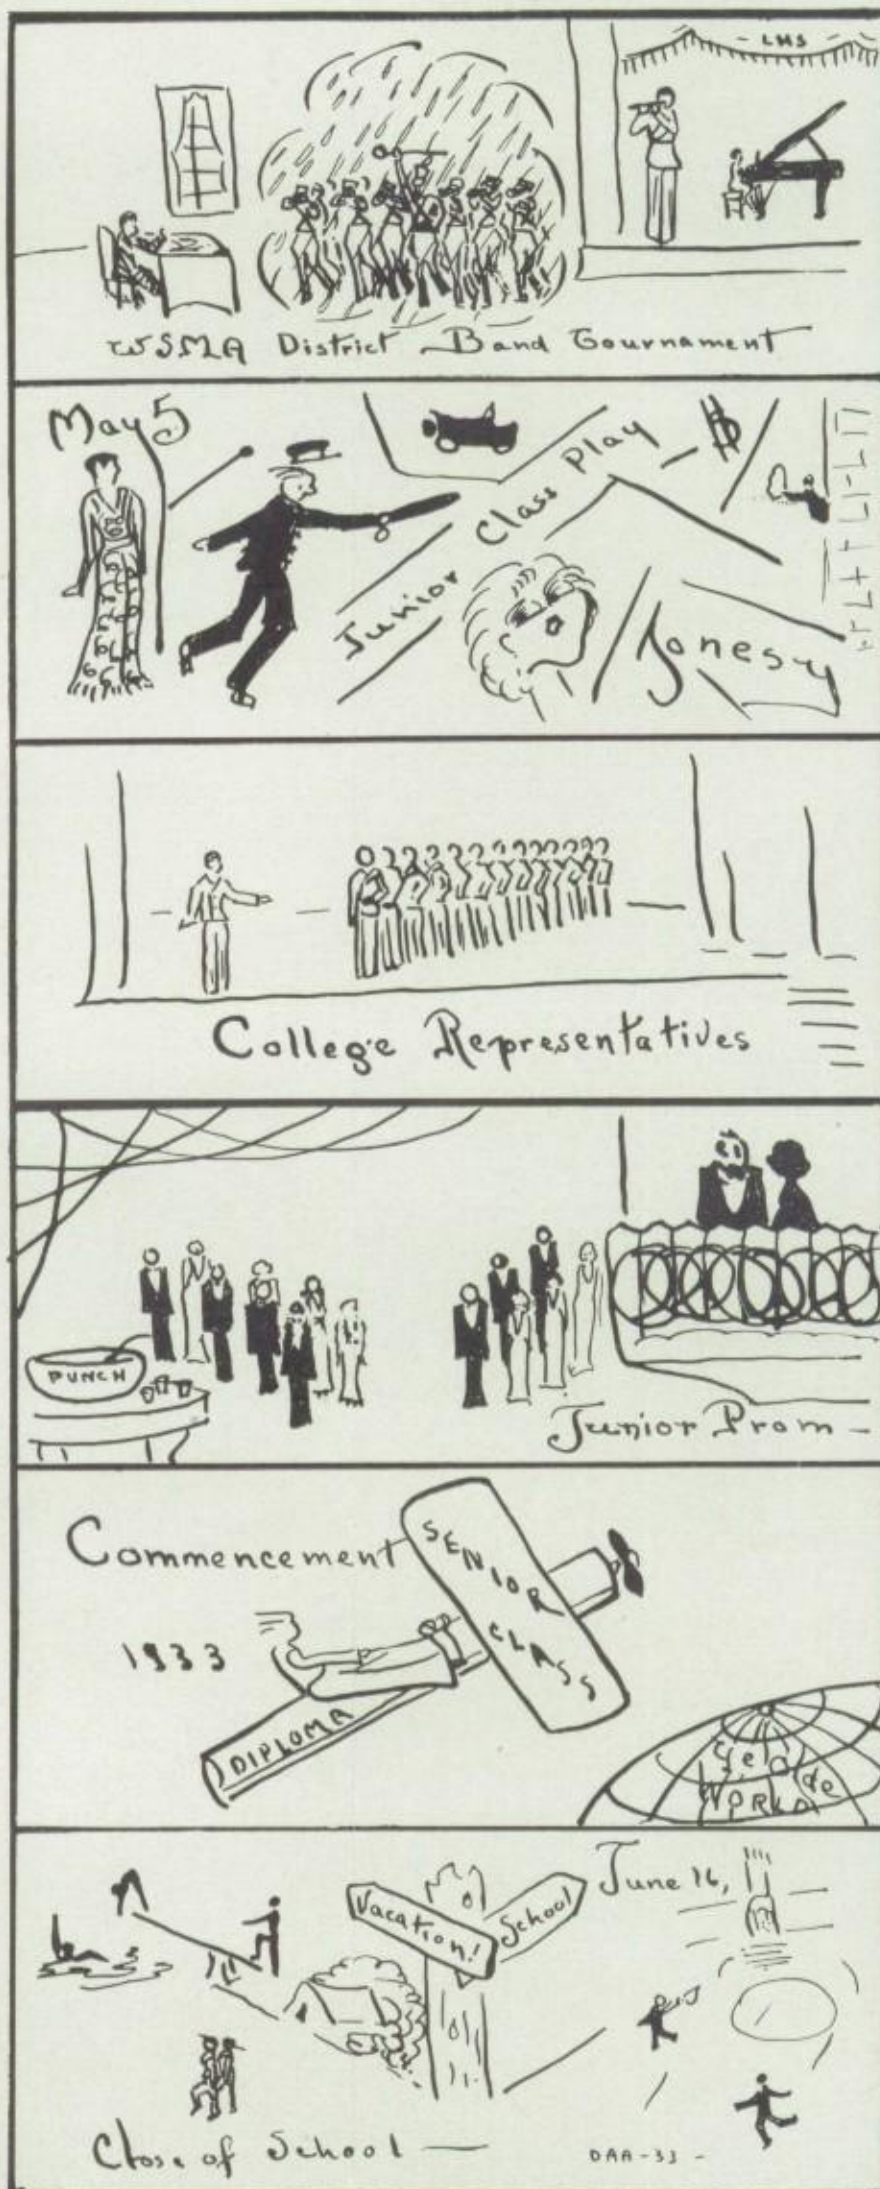

Friday-9—Seniors, out one week early, whoop and holler—or do they?

Friday-9—A starry, moon-set canopy overhead lays setting for the event of all events—the Prom!

Monday-12—Seniors practice for big commencement parade.

Wednesday-14—Seniors end high school days and commence battle of life.

Friday-16—"School days—school days"—No, more reading or writing or 'rithmetic—not until fall. See you at the old swimmin' hole!

Founded at Iowa University in 1926

*Lincoln High School Charter
Granted Jan. 7, 1929*

Election to Quill and Scroll, International Honor Society for high school journalists, is the highest honor which can be granted members of publication staffs. To become a member, a candidate must be recommended by Miss Bart, advisor of publications, must be a Junior, Senior, or Post graduate in the upper third of his class for the current year, and he must have done superior work in writing, editing or business management on one of the school publications. A sample of his work and a report of his qualifications and character must be sent to the national secretary and approved by him.

The Society sponsors group contests several times a year and is joint sponsor of the National Scholastic Awards Contest. This year, Ardis Albano won honorable mention in the national feature writing contest. In the last group contest, Edward Martin won honorable mention in sports writing, Billy Ohde honorable mention in the newspaper terms contest and in editorial writing. Rosa Lee Wood won honorable mention in headline writing.

Five students represented Lincoln High School at the Fox River Valley Press Association meeting, sponsored by the Appleton Chapter of Quill and Scroll, last fall. Grace Loeffler was elected vice president of the association which will hold its next year's meeting at Marinette.

PARODY

The Arrow and The Song

I shot an arrow into the air,
Where it fell, I did not care,
Maybe in some pond or lake,
Maybe in some duck or drake.

I breathed a song into the air,
Where it fell, I did not care,
Maybe in some wooded glenn,
Maybe heard by weary men.

Long, long afterwards in an elm,
I found the arrow in its realm,
And the song word for word,
I heard sung by a gay, colored bird.

Tim Egan '34

THE PROM

Blithely swaying, in gentle rhythm
To an orchestra's sweet refrain
Silken-clad damsels and carefree youths
Waltz on, down a silvery lane.

The moon has come out
To spy on their joy
The stars twinkle bright
On maiden's so coy.

Everyone is happy; everyone is glad
No-one is lonesome; no-one is sad;

" 'Tis a night made for love,"
Sing the angels above
"Linger a while and forget your cares
While we look on from our heavenly stairs."

Ursula Baugniet '34

I knew a guy named "Vic"
Who always the right girls would pick
Until one day he got licked
For he picked the daughter of the local "dick."

Philip Miles '34

BALLAD OF AN ASSEMBLY ROOM

The assembly was very quiet
Almost as quiet as a pin;
Students all seemed very studious—
All except "dear" boy, Jim.

Jim walked up to the teacher
And stood shyly at the desk
"May I go out?" She nodded.
(My, what an awful pest!)

John went up to the teacher,
Slapped a book down in front of her nose,
"Can't git dese darn problems—
Won't you help me, huh? With doze?"

Then the assembly became unruly
Kids walked in and out;
Mary made a spitball
And hit Tom right on the "snout."

The assembly was very quiet
As quiet as a pin.
Everybody was very studious
Without a smile or grin.
(Why? The principal had walked in.)

Sophia Briggs '34

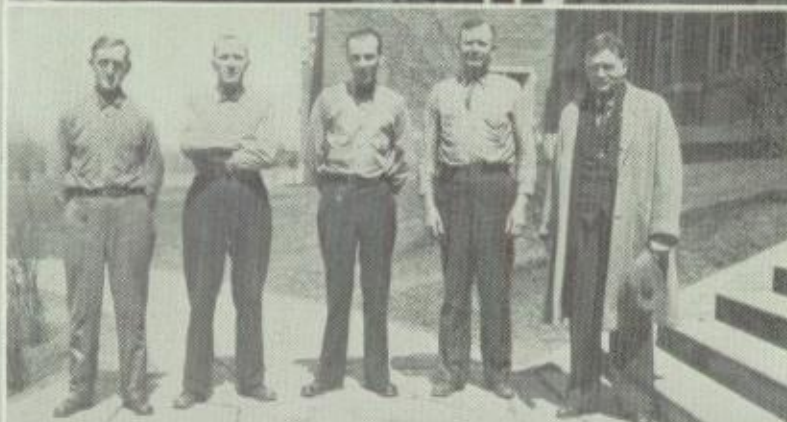

I wish they wouldn't pick on me
When it comes to writing poetry;
They're short of copy, so you see,
They're having me write poetry.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The 1933 "Flambeau" staff wishes to thank patrons who have helped make this annual a financial success. In view of the fact that this has been a year not of grace, but of depression, we realize that it has been harder this year for merchants to give us their contributions. Nevertheless, the business firms of Manitowoc listed on our next pages have responded royally, and we wish to extend them our heartfelt thanks.

We sincerely hope that students and other readers of this annual will show their appreciation by patronizing these places of business, and encouraging others to do so.
